Heat Tops 5-Year Record In Mansfield

MERCURY HITS 98; THIRTEEN DIE IN STATE

Cleveland Has All-Time High; Cincinnati's Hottest Spot In Nation.

MERCURY CLIMBS AGAIN

Reaches 93 at Noon as City Waits For Showers, Relief By Middle of Week.

HOURLY TEMPERATURES MONDAY

6 a. m.	73	10 a. m.	88
8 a. m.	86	11 a. m.	89
9 a. m.	88	12 noon	93

Mansfielders mopped their brows and hoped the weatherman was wrong today as he predicted no relief before the middle of the week from the six-day heat wave which gave the city a blistering 98-degree reading Sunday afternoon, highest in the past five years.

The heat death toll in Ohio mounted to 13 today as the mercury began climbing early, threatening to out-do yesterday's record marks in virtually every city from the Ohio river to Lake Erie.

Two persons were dead and five others were overcome by the heat in Cleveland where an all-time high of 103.2 degrees was recorded Sunday afternoon. Cincinnati had a reading of 105 degrees, highest in the nation, but still three degrees under the city's all-time mark set in 1936.

Although the mercury here climbed to 93 at noon today, the heat seemed less oppressive because of a strong northwest breeze.

The weatherman said a mass of cooler air is moving down from western Canada, but it is not expected to reach steaming Ohio until Tuesday night or Wednesday. Thundershowers, meanwhile, may bring temporary relief this afternoon or tomorrow, the forecast said. A storm in Cleveland this morning cooled the air for a short time, but the mercury began to rise again as soon as it was over.

Despite the blazing heat, no deaths attributed to the heat or prostrations were reported in the city over the week-end. It was believed, however, that the heat wave may have induced a heart attack suffered by Sam Barrett, 19½ East Fourth street, who collapsed near his home. He was taken to his rooms by police. Barrett received a cut on his head when he fell on the sidewalk.

Scores of Mansfielders slept in parks last night to escape the heat in their homes, police said. The city's swimming pools and parks were jammed Sunday and bathing facilities at nearby lakes and resorts on Lake Erie were overtaxed by the huge crowds, it was said. Frank Burton, city park superintendent, said 450 persons went swimming in the Liberty park pool.

Yesterday's reading of 98 was the highest here since July 27, 1936, when the same temperature was recorded. During July of the same year the mercury here registered from 98 to 104 degrees for six consecutive days, the records show.

Temperatures reported in Ohio yesterday included 103 at Bucyrus, 104 at Springfield, 100 in Columbus, and 99 at Dayton and Toledo. Other states to the west reported slightly lower readings as the blanket of sultry moved eastward.

Nine persons drowned in the state while seeking relief from the heat. Among them were Frank A. Barle, 38, Cleveland; Nathan Feldman, 40, a cottage father at Bellefair Jewish orphanage, who drowned at Madison-on-the Lake; Raymond Pope, 5, in a quarry near Kenton; Jeon Lawson, 8, in the Sandusky river, and Grace Mickey, 21, Crooksville, who drowned in a creek in a futile attempt to save her fiance, Carl Schaeffer, 22, Lancaster.

At Cleveland, George Viglianco, 32, partner in the North Pole Ice company, collapsed and died today while loading ice. Also dead there from the heat was Mrs. Helen Hyash, 64, who dropped to the street.

Area Escapes As State Auto Deaths Hit 25

Four Injuries Reported Near City; 8 Killed In Dayton Crash.

The Mansfield area escaped with five accidents and four injuries over the week-end as Ohio chalked up a total of 25 traffic deaths—biggest toll of any week-end this year. Boosting the total was the collision of a speeding passenger train with an auto near Dayton which took eight lives including an entire family of five.

In and near Mansfield four persons suffered cuts and bruises when their automobiles figured in collisions late Saturday and yesterday.

Henry Shannon, 32, and Nellie Tillery, 46, both of 222½ North Main street, received lacerations and bruises about the face, shoulders and forehead when their auto crashed into the rear of another on Bowman street yesterday at 9.10 p. m.

Two other women riding with Shannon escaped injury. Shannon and Mrs. Tillery were treated at General hospital.

George Weitzel, 56, Loudonville, R. D. 2, suffered a badly lacerated back late Saturday when the rear of his auto was struck by another driven by Fred Schwaner, 24, 313 Wayne street, about five miles west of Mansfield on Route 30-S. Weitzel told state highway patrolmen that he was attempting to make a U-turn when struck.

Paul W. Deweerd, Pennsville, Ind., escaped injury when his auto ploughed through a detour barricade at West Park drive and West Fourth street today at 2:29 a. m.

John Schiffel, 191 East Second street, received cuts and bruises late Saturday night when his automobile was struck by another driven by Auburn Dilger, 143 Columbia avenue, near the western limits of the city on Route 30.

One Shelby youth was injured when the automobile he was returning home in from Lake Erie with two other youths from here, early Sunday morning went into the ditch on Route 61 near Shelby.

James Rabold, 100 South Gamble street, Shelby, received a back injury when the car in which he was riding went off the road and into a five foot ditch. He received

SEEKS CHANGES

Wheeler Proposes $100 Month Pay To Keep Men In Army.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate foes of administration foreign policy sought today to force modification of proposed legislation which would give the president power to keep army men in service for an indefinite period.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), a leader of the opposition movement, said several substitute plans would be considered in the next few days at informal meetings of administration opponents.

Wheeler suggested the nation could "build a professional army, with high morale" by paying selectees and enlisted men a minimum of $100 a month—$30 in cash and $70 in government bonds, the latter redeemable when the men were discharged.

"That would make men want to enlist in the army," Wheeler declared, "and a draft would not be necessary."

STOPS BULLET

Youth Killed When He Steps Into Path Of Bullet.

McARTHUR, O. —(U.P.)— Sheriff Earl Stuck reported today that he had found the death of Edward Peoples, 28, killed by a 22-caliber rifle bullet, to be accidental.

He said Peoples was rounding the corner of a building when he stepped into the path of a bullet being fired at a target by his brother-in-law, James Boyer, 28.

Food Budgets Feeling War Pinch

Mansfielders are beginning to feel the pinch of war times when they go to the corner grocery for home supplies or to a downtown restaurant for lunch.

Most foods, and meats in particular, are from 10 per cent to a third higher than they were six months ago. In every case the answer is higher production costs.

Despite the higher prices for most commodities, the Special News service of The News-Journal reports that the increase has not been drastic—at least not yet—and prices now are no higher than they were in 1937.

Actually, the price jump in recent months only cancels the slump from 1937 to 1939, a survey by the National Industrial Conference board of New York shows. The cost of living is still 11 per cent under the supposed "palmy days" of 1929, according to the survey.

The government is hard at work trying to keep prices from sky-rocketing as they did during the first World war.

What is more, government statisticians estimate that factory pay rolls, the whole national income, for that matter, is running at rates very substantially in excess of 1929. The national income is said to be running at an annual rate of about $86,000,000,000, some five per cent higher than in 1929.

Of course, the population has increased a bit more than that, but when it is considered that a dollar earned will still buy much more than in 1929, the comparison with that year is scarcely

Two Mansfielders Who Don't Mind Heat Wave

Keeping cool when the mercury touches 98 may be a problem for most of us, but these two Mansfield youngsters seem to be having no trouble at all. Clad in their bathing suits and nibbling at ice cream cones, they don't care what the weatherman says about there being no relief near. The youngsters are Gene Adavasio, 219 West Fourth street, and Dana Carol Loomus, 221 West Fourth street.

Judy Garland Married In Airplane Elopement Today

Young Singing Star Wed To David Rose, Former Mate of Martha Raye; Honeymoon In Desert Lodge.

(By International News Service)

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Judy Garland, screen star, and Dave Rose, 31-year-old composer and orchestra leader, were married in Las Vegas early today after an airplane elopement from Hollywood.

The ceremony was performed by Justice of Peace Mahlon Brown in his office in the courthouse.

Arrangements for the elopement were handled through a scenic tours concern, which arranged for the airplane and for Judge Brown to perform the ceremony.

The plane arrived at 1 a. m. and the marriage was performed about 15 minutes later, as soon as the license could be issued.

The elopers were accompanied by Judy's mother and step father, Mr. and Mrs. William Gilmore.

The young signing star, asking her mother's help in filling out the license form, took out the license under her real name—Frances Garland. She gave her age as 19.

Rose gave his name as David D. Rose, and said his divorce became final in May, 1941. The divorce was from Martha Raye.

Following the marriage the couple went to El Rancho Vegas, swank desert lodge three miles from town, "where all of the Hollywood elopers go," as one Las Vegas resident put it.

Judy's rise to film fame has been among the most meteoric in Hollywood. Obscure and unknown when she came to pictures from vaudeville, where she had an act with her sister, in 1935, she was listed among the top box office names in 1940. Last year the court approved a contract with her studio calling for a salary of $2,000 a week.

MASS TROOPS

Army Mobilizes In South For Summer War Maneuvers.

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— The vanguard of the greatest armed force ever assembled for one operation in the Americas—equalling in numbers the American troops in the Meuse-Argonne offensive in 1918—came rolling toward Louisiana for the August-September war maneuvers.

From Camp Blanding, Fla., motorized units have started to bring 12,000 men in 1,853 vehicles to the western Louisiana maneuver area, and 14 train serials will carry 26,000 more.

Heavy troop movements from Camp Shelby, Miss., to the scene of the war games began today, and by September 1 will have stripped the population of the big training base from almost 50,000 to 3,000 men.

Nineteen of the 33 divisions comprising the United States army will take part in the exercises.

CITY REMOVES 10 FROM JOBS

Administration Reports Lack of Funds To Blame; Says Money Up To Council.

Ten members of the city's street repair and maintenance departments have been "laid off" for an "indefinite" period pending the appropriation of additional funds by city council.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced today that ten men, one employed in street cleaning department, had been removed from their jobs Saturday.

Crafton said that the men were only "temporary" workers. The men had been working with the city long enough to apply for their state retirement benefits, however.

The administration has in the last seven months spent $20,032.51 of the $34,000 set aside for use to repair streets this year. With 13 of the city's 24 pay-periods gone, an average of $1,540 has been paid out at each period. An average of $1,426 could have been maintained

TERMED 'DEFENSE' PLAN

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — Japanese troops began disembarking in southern Indo-China today in accordance with the new Japanese-French "joinse defense" agreement, Reuters (British news agency) reported in a dispatch from Hanoi, Indo-China capital.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO- Japan's privy council, in the presence of Emperor Hirohito, ratified today the Japanese-French accord under which Japan is moving troops, warplanes and warships into southeastern Asia for further occupation of French Indo-China.

Members of the council, according to the authoritative Japanese news agency Domei, further "encouraged the government to be prepared to cope with any situation which may arise in the East Asia co-prosperity sphere."

Japanese call the agreement one for "joint defense" of the French colony. (Japan's new bases are expected to be in the southern part, chiefly Saigon and Camranh bay, bringing Japanese forces hundreds of miles nearer Britain's stronghold of Singapore and the rich Netherlands East Indies.)

Japan has sufficient human and material resources, says her new finance minister, Matasune Ogura, to proceed with her plans for a greater East Asia order despite economic pressure by the United States and Great Britain.

Ogura, an industrialist called "the Knudsen of Japan," told the Japanese press yesterday the American-British action "had been surmised before hand."

"Furthermore, he predicted, "the reciprocal measures taken by Britain and the United States eventually will prove painful to the two countries so long as Japan's economic resources remain spund and strong."

(One big phase of Japan's great-

POLA BARRED

Actress Held at Ellis Island By Immigration Authorities.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)— Pola Negri, star of the silent motion pictures, was barred from entering the United States today. Her five-year permit has lapsed and has not been renewed, immigration authorities said when they took her to Ellis island.

Authorities took Miss Negri into custody when she sought to leave the American Export liner Excalibur which docked after a trip from Lisbon with 213 passengers.

Miss Negri, a Pole, has spent the last seven years making pictures in Germany and France.

"I have been working in Europe and made seven very successful pictures, talking pictures, in Germany and France," she said. "After the war broke out I lived with my mother, an aunt and an uncle on the Riviera. But America is my second home. I plan to take out citizenship papers now."

Moscow Says Blitz Broken, Nazis Weaken

Claim German Power Drives Breaking Down To Siege Tactics; Berlin Says Smolensk Battle Rapidly Drawing To A 'Successful Conclusion.'

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(UP)—Russian forces were reported today to have wiped out half a division of enemy troops in a 13-day battle on the Finnish front and to have driven back survivors of the division in a rout.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army appeared today to be taking the initiative on several sectors of the Russian-German front—a 2,000-mile fighting zone along which Soviet spokesmen earlier declared the Nazi blitzkrieg had broken down to siege tactics.

A communique reported "fighting actions of our troops" throughout the night in the directions of Nevel and Smolensk, in the central region, and at Zhitomir, in the Ukraine.

This was a variation from the wording of previous communiques, which mentioned only stubborn battles or fierce fighting, indicating that the Russians now are undertaking more than defensive operations.

The i.ed air fleet as well as ground troops were reported to be gradually swinging into the offensive.

The communique cited several specific instances of Russian thrusts against the Germans, ranging from a local raid on the invaders' lines to a large-scale counter-attack. All evidence on this side indicated that the German drive against the Russian lines was draining the German army's strength and that its progress was coming to a halt in the sixth week of the war.

CLAIM MOSCOW THRUST NEAR

Nazis Say Russian Attempts Fail To Free Trapped Army In Smolensk Region.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—All Russian attempts to prevent annihilation of trapped Red army forces in the Smolensk area have failed and the "Battle of Smolensk," a phrase of the Nazis' thrust toward Moscow, "is drawing to a successful conclusion," the German high command communique declared today.

On the Finnish side of the Nazi push toward Leningrad, the Soviet Union's second largest city, the bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said that the Russians were offering tough resistance but that new advances had been made.

Earlier reports had placed the German vanguards within 45 miles of Leningrad.

On the southern end of the long eastern front, the communique said the armies of Germany and her southeastern allies were "in pursuit of the enemy in spite of bad roads."

Although the high command yesterday maintained its reticence regarding the position of the Nazi forces, DNB, the official news agency, said some units had stabbed to the vicinity of Volosovo, 45 miles southwest of Leningrad.

There, DNB related, the Germans found a Russian division

'HANDKERCHIEF' BANDIT SOUGHT

Cleveland Police Say More Than 50 Robberies Staged By Man.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland's "white handkerchief" bandit has the police going around in circles.

As the search went into its 111th day, detectives reported he has staged more than 50 robberies which have netted approximately $2,700.

The robber has confined his forays to gasoline stations, grocery stores and truck and taxicab drivers. In every holdup he has worn a soiled white handkerchief over his face.

He has held up one gasoline station eight times.

FISH FABLE

Girl Snares 11-pound Salmon With Bare Hands on Pacific Coast.

TACOMA, Wash. — (AP) — Miss Bonnie Scott and two friends walking along a Puget Sound beach saw a king salmon chasing a herring towards the shore.

Going full tilt, the salmon snared his prey at the water's edge—but was going too fast to turn around. He landed high and dry on the sand, nearly two yards out of water.

In proof, Miss Scott displayed the salmon, weighing 11¼ pounds.

INJURIES FATAL

BOZEMAN, Mont. —(AP)— Injured in a fall from an unruly ranch horse, Wilbur Love Cummings, 60, prominent New York attorney and a trustee of Kenyon college, Gambier, O., died at a rance near Ennis.

YOUTH SEIZED

Held After Driving Government Truck From NYA Camp.

Apprehended by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Deputy C. C. Gongwer after a chase through the eastern part of the county at 3 a. m. today, a 17-year-old pupil at the NYA training school at Mifflin lake was held in the county jail for attempting to flee in a government truck.

The youth, who is on probation to a Columbus court, was captured near Mifflin after he had driven nearly to Mansfield and then back-tracked in an attempt to elude officers.

The sheriff was called into the chase by NYA officials at the camp when they heard the truck leaving. The boy will be held for Columbus authorities for violation of his probation, Sheriff Robinson said. The youth had promised to drive to his home in Columbus, Robinson said.

CITY RECEIVES FREE LEMONADE

Refreshments Served by C. of C. At Bluefield, W. Va.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va.—(AP)— The "air-conditioned city" was putting out free lemonade today.

Keeping a promise made more than a year ago, Secretary Edward A. Steele of the chamber of commerce called upon a half dozen pretty girls to take up posts on downtown streets and dispense lemonade to all comers.

The temperature in this mountain-enclosed city reached 91 degrees yesterday for the first time since August 24, 1934. The free lemonade offer was made for every day that the temperature went above 90.

Sunday was the third time in 10 years that Bluefield has experienced a temperature of above 90.

The irony of it was that it looked like rain this morning.

Caution!

Readers are reminded that dispatches from the belligerent nations of Europe and from the Far East are subject to censorship at the source.

Timely And Full Of Wallop, Column By Gen. Hugh Johnson Comes To Readers Of News-Journal Beginning Tomorrow

Right now, with the United States stepping up its defense effort in the face of threats of possible war both from Europe and the Far East, the pungent remarks of General Hugh S. Johnson have taken on especial interest.

That's why The News-Journal is adding the Johnson column to its list of regular features tomorrow.

The News-Journal may not always agree with what General Johnson says and probably the readers won't, either, but his forthright, vigorous comment and criticism are always stimulating—because no one doubts his sincerity and honesty.

General Johnson is a fighter. He fought as a soldier. He fought as head of the National Recovery Administration. And now he fights for what he believes is right with his typewriter.

First of his columns on national and international affairs will appear on the section page, along with the Voice of Broadway column by Dorothy Kilgallen, in the Tuesday edition of The News-Journal. The feature will appear daily except Sundays.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "Tom, Dick and Harry." Screenplay by paul Jarrico. Directed by Garson Kanin. Principals: Ginger Rogers, George Murphy, Alan Marshal, Burgess Meredith, Joe Cunningham, Jane Seymour, Lenore Lonergan, Vici Lester, Phil Silvers, Betty Breckenridge.

This is the movie Garson Kanin was making when Selective Service called him from his chores. Audiences everywhere — and Uncle Sam himself, who wants to keep his nephews and nieces happy—should be grateful for the brief deferment granted the director to finish his picture. For my part, I think Uncle Sam ought to take another look at young Mr. Kanin's slight frame—not ideal for rifle-toting—and send him packing back to Hollywood to add to the gaiety of those nations still showing our movies.

"Tom, Dick and Harry" is an ingenious little tale. In this movie era when most of our heroines sit pensively over their knitting (or grog) and live over their pasts in retrospect, Miss Rogers is a novelty: she looks into the future, dreams what life will be like with each of her three suitors.

The picture is about nothing more vital than a romantic working-girl's dizzy uncertainty about which of three desirable fellas she'll take to the altar.

Janie's a telephone operator. You meet her first in a bang-up opening sequence — a crowded movie house, with Janie and boy friend Tom (Murphy) picked up in the audience. You don't see the screen, but you hear the soundtrack of a mushy, too typical movie love scene, and you see Janie dreaming and Tom a little fidgety. Without seeing what's on the screen, you know the fade-out clinch is on because the small boy behind Janie and Tom lets out with a jeering smack. As Janie and Tom get up to go, the newsreel comes on, and the sound track is filled with a wild, fanatic guttural, easily recognizable, Janie and Tom pause at the exit to hiss.

But back to Janie's problem: when Tom proposes, Janie accepts. She isn't too sure, but she thinks maybe. It's the same when Harry proposes. Harry's a mechanic (Meredith), charming in a wildly goofy way. She mistakes him, at first, for Dick (Marshal), the millionaire she's always dreamed about. And it's the same when Dick proposes, only she isn't sure of anything then because, on her first big spree, she has become slightly lit. So she invites all three to breakfast next morning, to let them know which one she's chosen. And they come, eagerly and dutifully, and you don't know who's the lucky—or unlucky—man until the film's last minute.

LEWIS FLAYS PROPOSAL TO BUILD SEAWAY

Tells Congress United Mine Workers 'United' In Opposition.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—John L Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers (CIO) asserted today the "united opposition" of his organization to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway and power development. He said the project is economically unjustified.

"It is common gossip in the congressional halls, and admitted in editorial comment, that the proposed St. Lawrence project, would be kicked out the window without ceremony, if a sane appraisal and simple economic yardstick could be utilized to determine its merits," Lewis told the house rivers and harbors committee.

The project, he added, was rejected in 1934 as unnecessary for either power or commerce and now is being propelled through congress as a wartime defense need.

"The new dress of defense necessity is calculated to lift the proposal from the mire of the monstrous and uneconomic, and make those, who know better, accept it as an essential arm of national defense," Lewis said.

Lewis opposed completion of the project because it would result in the displacement of coal in the generation of electricity, would provide a water route and serve as an inducement for the importation of foreign coal, and ultimately would result in the displacement of 50,000 miners.

"Since we have failed to make any assured, permanent progress in solving our unemployment problems, I cannot understand how in the name of common sense, even though disguised in the new dress of defense and progress, this committee can act favorably on this proposal, which in the end means a graduated mounting scale of unemployment that in time will displace 50,000, and maybe more, American workingmen," Lewis said.

Retired Carpenter-Contractor Succumbs at Home.

A resident of Mansfield for the past 22 years, Edward F. Shupp, 69, of 87 Waring avenue, died early today at the family home following a lingering illness.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Col. Everett Collins, 55, ordnance officer for the army's fifth air corps area since August, 1938, died of a heart attack last night.

SENATE GETS NOMINATION OF MacARTHUR TO PHILIPPINES

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The nomination of Douglas MacArthur as lieutenant general in charge of an army of the far east moved toward the senate today for confirmation, and Senator Pepper (D.-Fla) declared that President Roosevelt could have made "'no better selection" as chief of America's land forces in the troubled area.

"If the Japanese think they can move into the Philippines as they did into Indo-China they have a surprise awaiting them," said the Florida senator, a staunch supporter of the president's foreign policies.

MacArthur's confirmation might be regarded as an indirect endorsement of the president's order Saturday blanketing all Philippine armed forces into the service of the United States.

That order, as well as the earlier proclamation freezing the economic assets of Japan in this country and its possessions, gave convincing evidence of the stiffened far eastern policy adopted by the administration following Japan's move into southern Indo-China.

The newly consolidated Philippine military organization intrinsically is a defense force, not viewed by officials here as even a potential expeditionary corps. MacArthur, a former chief of staff who for five years supervised the training of the Philippine army, has contended repeatedly that the Archipelago could be defended successfully from a sea attack.

Parliamentary law and court procedure are very rigid rules of conduct but even they must bend for the current heatwave. Although Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, City Solicitor M. D. Ward and Hughes pattern their dress after the judge who decides daily whether or not the court will wear coats.

The birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dickerson, jr., former Mansfield residents, in a Columbus hospital at 5 a. m. today broke a chain of Sunday births in the Dickerson family. The child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dickerson, sr., 112 Glenwood boulevard, Mansfield, were born on Sunday as were both of the littie boy's parents. The grandson missed arriving on Sunday by only a little more than five hours.

A modern motorcycle is NOT made to travel at 10 miles an hour, State Patrolman Hannay learned the other day when he was detailed to follow a road painting truck. The truck marked the center stripe in the roads at just 10 miles per and Hannay had to stay behind it all the time and keep motorists from crossing the wet paint. Well, they traveled 80 miles that day and Hannay says he stopped at every fence post to let the air-cooled motor cool. Air has to pass over the cylinder heads at a certain speed or it doesn't cool, Hannay explained.

Admiring her visiting granddaughter's bright new polish, she asked if the girl would show her how to apply the fluid. Granddaughter brought a bottle on her next trip from Mansfield and carefully explained just how the shades were painted on fingernails. All went well until a couple of days ago when granddaughter received a letter asking her to complete her course... she'd forgotten to explain how chipping polish was removed.

DIES ON JOB

C. G. Raymore Stricken While Working at Shelby Theater.

A resident of Mansfield for the past 19 years, Clyde G. Raymore, 57, of 37 Burnese avenue, died last night when he was stricken with a heart attack while operating a motion picture unit of the Del Ray Motion Picture company at Shelby.

Mr. Raymore, who was born at Marion, came to Mansfield about 19 years ago. He had operated a barbershop here for several years before he associated with the Del Ray company.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucy M. Raymore, a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Worrell, of Manhassett, N. Y., and a son, Jack Raymore, of New Jersey.

The body was taken to the Jones Memorial home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

TWO AREA MEN JOIN U. S. NAVY

Shelby, Fredericktown Residents Leave Today to Start Training.

Two more Mansfield area youths left today to join the navy, according to W. G. Cox, Mansfield area recruiting officer.

Richard J. Reichhard of Shelby went to Cleveland to take the oath of allegiance. He will join a midshipmen's reserve training school at Northwestern university in September.

Charles N .Price, 21, of Fredericktown joined the regular navy for a six-year enlistment period and left for Great Lakes, Ill., for primary military training.

FOUND DEAD

Police Say Prominent Toledo Man Took Own Life With Gun.

TOLEDO—(INS)—Arthur J. Secor, 83, one of Toledo's prominent financial men was dead today in what Detective Fred Tank ruled an apparent suicide.

Secor was found in the basement of his home with a bullet in his head. He had retired many years ago from his wholesale grocery business and had devoted much time to the Toledo Museum of Art.

Acting in the absence of the county coroner, Tank did not give any motive.

PAVE WAY FOR VOTE DURING CURRENT WEEK

Measure Scheduled To Be Brought Up In House Tomorrow.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Rep. Doughton (D.), N. C., chairman of the house ways and means committee, today warned that a new revenue bill will be offered soon and predicted that it may include a general sales tax and a lowering of income exemptions to create millions of new direct taxpayers. This new measure will be in addition to the pending $3,500,000,000 tax bill, Doughton told the house rules committee.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration leaders sought today to clear the way for house passage of the $3,529,200,000 tax bill this week in virtually the same form in which it came from the ways and means committee.

Chairman Doughton (D.-N. C.) of the committee said he would ask for special procedure under which only committee-sanctioned amendments could be offered after the measure reaches the floor.

Republican members said they would oppose such procedure as "gag rule" but some of them conceded it was customary to limit amendment of such technical measures.

The bill is scheduled to be brought up tomorrow for three days of debate and indications were there would be plenty of verbal fireworks.

In the first place, the 10 Republican members of the ways and means group already have indicated plainly their intention of making the measure a vehicle of fiery criticism of the administration's non-defense spending.

Three Democrats and two of the Republicans also served notice that they would oppose the proposed requirement of joint income tax returns from married couples. They denounced the proposal as "not only unsound but definitely unconstitutional."

They contended the proposal, designed to raise about $300,000,000, in effect revived the old common-law rule under which a wife did not have complete recognition as a separate person.

On the other hand, the committee majority report, issued Saturday, held that division of income between husband and wife as a tax-saving device "has no equitable basis." By filing separate returns as permitted under existing law, husbands and wives who are both earning thus would be able to escape higher surtaxes to which they would be subject under the pending bill if their incomes were pooled.

John Fitzpatrick Dies At His Home In Blooming Grove

GALION—John J. Fitzpatrick, 73, died early today at his home two miles south of Blooming Grove, following a short illness. He had suffered a paralytic stroke July 6.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, who was born at De Graf, was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church at Galion.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Raypole, of Galion, and Pearl Fitzpatrick, of Springfield; two sons, James, of Surprise, and Fenton, of Springfield, and seven grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Volk funeral home.

Services will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church Wednesday at 9 a. m. Rev. William Killoran will officiate. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Council Approves Agreement With French For Move Into Southeastern Asia.

er East Asia "co - prosperity sphere" program blew up during the week-end, Reuters, British new agency, indicated today in reporting from Batavia that The Netherlands East Indies was clamping control on foreign exchange transactions with Japan.

(Japan sought unsuccessfully for months to reach an agreement with the Indies government providing for an increase in exports.)

Ogura declared, however, that he considered it "imperative and necessary to perfect the war-time system at the earliest moment possible in order that the national economic power may be most effectively displayed on a well-planned basis."

United States citizens, faced with Japan's retaliatory measures freezing their funds, learned yesterday from the finance ministry that "elasticity" in enforcement would be permitted in "light of actual American application of the assets-freezing decree against Japan in that country."

American and British citizens must obtain the ministry's approval to acquire or dispose of real estate, real estate credits, and other property or to dispose of Japanece currency exceeding 500 yen (about $118) a month.

Anticipates Action By Latin Americans

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The administration anticipates parallel action by Latin American countries to make the economic warfare of the democracies against Japan more effective, an informed source said today.

It is understood that administration officials are developing a co-operative policy with the other Americas to prevent Japan from importing from other western hemisphere sources, the goods she is now unable to obtain here.

United States purchases of strategic materials has made it difficult, in most cases, for Japan to obtain supplies in Latin America. However, Japan has imported substantial amounts of cotton from Peru, and cotton and other strategic materials from Brazil.

The move to heighten economic action against Japan was coincident with these developments:

1. Chairman Walter F. George, D., of Ga., of the senate foreign relations committee, felt that "the United States must take definite steps and carry them out resolutely" should Japan attempt to move against the Philippines. He did not anticipate such a move "for a long time." In the meantime, he said, United States action against Japan would be confined to the economic.

2. President Roosevelt will send to the senate today for confirmation his nomination of Douglas MacArthur, former chief of staff, as lieutenant general in command of the new United States army of the Far East, with headquarters in the Philippines. Senate consideration of the nomination easily could develop into a full-dress debate on Mr. Roosevelt's far eastern policy.

3. United States relations with the French Vichy government were strained by the latter's approval of Japanese occupation of Indo-China, but officials did not believe there would be retaliatory measures or a severance of diplomatic relations. Senator George said Vichy was under "intense pressure from Germany and Japan."

4. Diplomatic officials speculated on the possibility that the United States may extend its present trade with French Africa to include Senegal of which strategic Dakar is the capital.

Officials said Germany has tried to keep French officials in Africa from trading with the United States. They said Nazi agents have argued that Germany could deliver the same goods in more generous quantities and on more favorable terms.

Cuyahoga County Grand Jury Calls Witnesses In Alleged Racket.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The county grand jury today began investigation into the operation of an alleged insurance ring suspected of having taken out many thousands of dollars' worth of insurance policies on human derelicts and chronic alcoholics.

Nine witnesses—six women and three men—were ordered to appear before the grand jury. A tenth witness, an 85-year-old woman, was unable to appear because of infirmities.

Existence of the ring was uncovered by Casper Corso, attorney-investigator in the state attorney general's office.

treatment at Shelby Memorial hospital.

Mahlon Utz, who was driving, and George Riggs, both of Shelby, were bruised and shaken up in the accident.

A Pennsylvania passenger train, 50 minutes late and speeding 70 miles an hour, crashed into an auto near Dayton wiping out a West Carrollton family of five and killing three members of another West Carrollton family.

Dr. A. P. McDonald, Montgomery county coroner, identified the dead as:

Walter H. Reel, 32, of West Carrollton; his wife, Mildred, 36; their children: Betty, 5; Billy, 3; Ruth Ann, 2; Otto Kline, 55, of West Carrollton; his wife, Villa, 53; their son, Ralph, 10.

The two families were en route from a family reunion at Miller's Grove, 16 miles north of Dayton, to their homes seven miles south of here. Deputy Sheriff Earl Frederick quoted witnesses as saying Kline, driver of the car, stopped it momentarily at the unprotected Gettysburg Pike crossing, then drove in front of the train.

The train was running downgrade at 70 miles an hour and was 50 minutes late, its conductor, H. O. Allen of Columbus, said.

Deputy Sheriff Al D'Angulo reported that traffic at the scene of the accident was snarled for hours as a crowd which he estimated at 30,000 choked the highway.

The crash was the most tragic accident in a week-end that saw 25 persons killed by trains and highway traffic in Ohio.

At Columbus, Mrs. Mary McDonald, 49, founder and director of the Buckeye Women's Republican Glee club, was injured fatally in a collision.

A gasoline truck explosion at the Preston Oil Co. loading station eight miles south of Lancaster early today caused the death in City hospital of Richard Gee, 24, of Ovid, Mich., truck driver.

Gee's partner, Thale Medlar, 22, of Alma, Mich., perished when he was trapped in the cab of the flaming truck.

Other deaths included: Pomeroy—James Kesterson, 50, and Richard Karr, 22, in crash against culvert. Newark—James Hussion, 51, struck by train. Hillsboro—Henry Willoughby, 17, skull fractured in fall from truck.

Cleveland—Mrs. W. H. Fields, of Charleston, W. Va. Canton—Edward Humbert, jr., 12, of Uniontown, in crash of milk truck against tree. Piqua—Harry J. Davis, 52, of Greenville. Portsmouth—Frank Schnitzius, 60, when truck struck rear end of his farm wagon.

Wapakoneta—Elizabeth Enoch, 20, of Alger, in collision. Dayton—Elmer Ernst, 28, of Trotwoood, motorcyclist, hurled through automobile windshield by collision. Columbus—Joseph Wagner, 84, struck by automobile; Perry Weese, 78, hit by motor car July 7; Mervin A. Given, 57, injured in truck-auto collision July 16.

Lorain—Harold Guba, 22, in auto collision. Massillon—Chester Stevens, 15, of Cambridge, in pile-up of two trucks and two automobiles.

DRIVER FINED

SHELBY—Carl Wilson of Crawford county was fined $100 and costs this morning by Mayor W. R. Morris when he pleaded guilty to charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Pots, Pans Are Baled, Melted

Pots and pans in a Cleveland smelting plant.

Ingots piled high.

Have you wondered what is going to be done with those aluminum pots and pans Mansfield collected last week and which are now stacked up in Central park? The pots and pans are melted down and then cast into molds. The ingots then are shipped to other plants where they are remelted, turned into thin sheets and used domestically to release pure aluminum for plane construction. Aluminum is the most abundant metallic element in the earth's crust. It is very malleable, ductile and noted for its lightness.

German military leaders said that in the vicinity of Mogilev in the Smolensk sector they had completed an encirclement movement, annihilated two Russian divisions and started 23,000 prisoners back to prison camps. Booty captured was listed as 61 cannon, 80 anti-tank guns and 750 vehicles.

Semi-official accounts told of Nazi wedges driven through the Red army lines farther to the south and the high command reported the luftwaffe in a smashing assault Saturday night pounded the Soviet capital with a quarter-million pounds of high explosives and countless fire bombs.

a new Verdun—held to a standstill after days of costly effort to break through the Smolensk sector toward Moscow and the Zhitomir front toward Kiev.

2. Destruction of two German divisions, one of them perhaps in the Smolensk salient where the Red army was credited with putting up a fight "that will be studied for years."

3. A fierce defense of Moscow and Leningrad that frustrated repeated German aerial attempts to burn out the two big cities of western Russia during the past week.

4. Red army forays approaching counter-offensives against the Germans in some sectors of the land front, timed with increasing Red air-fleet operations which caused the Luftwaffe to fall back upon bases far to the rear.

5. Destruction of two German torpedo boats, two tankers, a submarine and several patrol boats in a Red air-fleet sweep over the Baltic.

"The blitzkrieg is a washout," said S. A. Lozovsky, vice foreign commissar. He minimized the German ground gains, declared giant Russia could afford to lose the territory, and said what was more important was that the Red army held its front unbroken from the Arctic to the Black sea.

black, even if prices rise some farther.

Farmers are receiving the best price in several years for their hogs, so the price of pork is soaring to levels reminiscent of the war days of 1917-18.

Pork chops cost as much as 44 cents a pound in Mansfield stores, a 10 to 12-cent increase in the past two months. A good pork roast costs from 32 to 38 cents a pound, 10 cents higher than the price last spring.

Here are some other price comparisons compiled after a survey of Mansfield wholesale and retail dealers and restaurants.

Hamburger meat, usually considered one of the cheaper foods, is from two to four cents higher per pound and may cost from 21 to 29 cents in Mansfield meat markets.

Wieners are as much as 30 cents a pound, three cents higher than a few months ago.

Sardines, once available for five to seven cents a can, now bring $28 a 100 cans, according to one Mansfield restaurant proprietor. They are in big demand for the army and in some places the source of production has been sharply reduced or cut off.

The price of sugar has gone up three times in the past 60 days and now is 55 cents higher per 100 pounds than before the first price increase went into effect. Most of the increase, merchants explained, is due to the lack of ships to bring sugar to the United States from Cuba where it is produced.

Flour is up $1 a barrel. Wholesalers say it is because of government control of the wheat supply. Canned goods are from 50 cents to 75 cents higher per dozen cans, an increase ranging as high as one third.

Canned pears that sold for $2.35 a dozen cans wholesale a short time ago now cost $3.

Mansfield dairies are charging four cents more per quart for ice cream, making the price 34 cents in most cases. At the restaurants, however, there's not much difference in the size of the five and 10-cent dishes.

Wholesalers explained that just about everything they use to make and distribute ice cream, including the paper container, is costing them more. Raw milk has increased from $1.50 to $2 per 100 pounds, and fruits, nuts, flavoring, and syrups are more expensive, the dairymen said.

Restaurants have followed the grocers' and dairymen's examples and "upped" their prices. An order of ham and eggs now costs 45 cents in most places, five cents more than a month or two ago. Plate lunches and fancy sandwiches are generally five cents higher, while the 15-cent sandwich has entered the 20-cent bracket if it contains any quantity of meat.

Other home necessities, including soap, drugs, and electrical appliances, have already increased in price or will go up in price soon, merchants said.

Electrical appliances, nearly as essential as food in most homes, are 20 per cent higher and increases of nearly that much are anticipated in the price of other appliances soon, dealers said.

The reason is that materials used in many of the articles are needed in the defense industries, forcing production costs upward. Employers are paying higher wages and passing the increased cost on to the consumer.

While most of the every-day drug and toilet items such as toothpaste, shaving cream, and cosmetics have escaped the price increase so far, olive oil, and cod-liver oil are up 10 to 40 per cent.

Olive oil, needed in large quantities by Uncle Sam's army, is 40 per cent higher because the source in Europe and Asia has virtually been cut off, druggists said. Quinine is about seven cents higher an ounce because of the increased war insurance rate on shipments, one druggist said.

by the administration for each of the 24 periods.

With $20,032.51 already spent, the administration will be forced to maintain an average street department payroll of $1,269 for the remaining 11 pay periods, unless additional money is given it.

Tyenty-nine were on the street repair payrolls at the last period. An additional five were employed for street cleaning. The "laying off" of ten will bring the street department's payroll down to only 20 men, and the street cleaners to four. The nine men released were Class B laborers as was the single street cleaner.

The ten men were informed by letter that their "lay-off" periods would be indefinite unless council appropriates more funds for street work.

The Indian tribal name Assiniboine means "stone boiler," from the practice of cooking by dropping hot stones into vessels of water.

Japan Playing Axis Game

WHATEVER importance may attach to Japan's move into French Indo-China, this action must be recognized as a part of Axis strategy as a whole, rather than Japan's own decision.

Inclination of the United States has been to be quite patient with Japan, despite our open aid to China, and this appeasement policy has served to strengthen Japanese military forces by shipment of supplies from this country.

Now, however, this complacent attitude has undergone an abrupt change and trade relations between the two countries are temporarily suspended, Japan is denied access to the Panama canal and military forces of the Philippine Islands have been called into active service.

Hitler's invasion of Russia and Japan's recent aggressive steps in the Far East evidence the close tie-up of Axis plans to proceed with all possible speed toward the goal of world domination and strengthen belief that the United States, Great Britain, and whatever other powers can be enlisted in opposition, must move quickly—and with the greatest attainable force -- to prevent accomplishment of these purposes.

It is only through the present resistance of Great Britain and Russia that actual attack on the United States and the Western Hemisphere is being delayed.

More Gasoline If Needed

THIS COUNTRY is building a great mechanized army. The very soul of that army will be oil—gasoline to propel it, and lubricants to grease the intricate mechanisms. So one of the extremely important questions of the time is this: Have we the motor fuel we need—and will there be enough left over for civilian demands after military requirements are met?

That vital question was recently answered by a large oil company. It is estimated that gasoline for the army's 250,000 motor vehicles—tanks, blitz buggies, trucks, etc.—may total 1,000,000,000 gallons a year. That's a lot of gas—yet, says the company, America's refineries can turn out that billion gallons in less than two weeks, leaving 50 weeks to produce for the air force, the navy and the civilian population.

That shows how well the oil industry is prepared for this emergency. Under the American private enterprise system, it has developed, on its own initiative and with its own money, the greatest plant of its kind in the world. Thus, oil belongs with those other great industries—electric power, railroads, mining, etc.—which are ready to meet any demands circumstances may impose.

Russia's Belated Recognition

THE average American is no great delver into history and forgets many facts he may once have learned. Thus the statement that tsarist Russia did not recognize the new United States of America for 33 years is a little surprising. Prof. Ivar Spector of the University of Washington tells about it in an article in the Tacoma News-Tribune.

"When the Declaration of Independence was issued in 1776," he writes, "Catherine the Great was on the throne of Russia, but it was not until 1809, in the time of Alexander I, that Russia recognized the United States.

"The Russian government of that day did not fear the military power of the United States. Its disapproval was based on ideological and religious grounds. It not only considered Americans dangerous revolutionists but likewise regarded them as 'godless' and atheistic."

Mr. Spector's brief paragraphs open a mental gate and set the mind to wandering in strange fields. He provides a long glance backward to let us see ourselves as others saw us, which easily turns into a glance forward and speculation about future points of view.

Sorry To Leave America

SOME of the things those Nazi and Fascist consuls carried back home with them afforded interesting speculation on the conditions they expected to find there. A number of them took quantities of extra clothing or the material to make it. One man, for example, had enough woolen cloth for sixteen suits, complete with thread, buttons and lining stuff.

Even more revealing, perhaps, were the 300 pounds of American spaghetti bought in New York to be taken to Italy.

Some of the consular agents had been in the United States for many years without any recent trips home. A few said frankly that they considered America their home and were sorry to leave.

Such statements, plus the food and fabrics carried, suggest that many in that group already know, and expect to learn more, about the contrasts between this country and their own.

Great Britain's Paid Advertising

WHEN Lady Astor recently asked for full information on the publicity and public relations activities of the British government, facts were presented which should interest Americans. It was reported that various government departments had spent, since the start of the war, about $10,000,000 for newspaper and poster advertising. The largest departmental expenditures were in behalf of the national savings and food campaigns and the ministry of information.

It was explained that these expenditures did not represent subsidies to newspapers but regular advertising directed to purposes as specific as any peace-time sales effort.

There are many patriots in this country, and their number seems to be increasing, who believe that the United States government ought to follow the British example. So far, they point out, it has relied on free space in newspapers and ballyhoo stunts. Yet thrift and conservation, the sale of defense stamps and bonds, and various other important matters of national interest call for widespread, intelligent publicity such as can only be achieved with straight-out, self-respecting and continuous advertising.

TIME TO HAVE HIS HEAD EXAMINED

Seaway Project May Have Chance

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—It is amazing, in view of the multitude of American industries and workers whose self-interest makes them opposed to the St. Lawrence Seaway, that the proposal has a chance of passage. Normally such an aggregation of interests is enough to insure the defeat of any proposition before Congress.

First and foremost there is the electric industry, which is opposed irreconcilably. The strength of the security holders and workers in that industry was demonstrated in the fight against the famous "death sentence" in the utility holding company act. It must be remembered, also, that in that fight there was at least a minority of both security holders and workers in the industry which was not with the majority. For example it is known that some small electric operating companies viewed the "death sentence" for the big holding companies without shudders.

Yet the administration had to strain its influence on Capitol Hill to the utmost to obtain the passage of that act. In fact it had to resort to what was thought at the time to be compromise, though cleverness in the writing of the final language enabled the New Dealers to turn the compromise into a victory.

But in the St. Lawrence Seaway fight the electric industry—and workers—has several powerful allies it did not have in other fight.

FIRST, there are the railroads. Not only the security holders, and the officials, but the workers almost to a man. For most trainmen and engineers do not draw pay unless they work, and they have a real fear, especially those East of the Rockies and North of the Potomac, of what the transfer of a lot of freight from their own roads to the St. Lawrence Seaway would mean to them.

Second, there are the Atlantic and Gulf ports. The chambers of commerce and local boosters in those cities are aghast at the idea of their port facilities being deprived of business they now have—or would have in peace time—by transfering the traffic to the seaway.

Particular sufferers would be Portland, Me. Portsmouth, N. H., Providence, R. I., New York, Jersey City, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore and Norfolk.

It may seem surprising that a port as far south as Norfolk would fear the effect of the seaway, but both Virginia senators voted against the treaty for that reason in 1934. More amazing, the Georgia senators opposed it, probably worrying about Savannah; and the Florida senators dodged the roll-call, probably anxious about Jacksonville.

Even the Louisiana and Texas ports are worried about it.

Third, we have the coal industry, which is opposed to any new development of hydro power. The trouble about hydro power from the coal miner's standpoint, is that it is so permanent. If a steam plant for the production of electricity turns out to be economically unsound, it shuts down. The machinery is sold and used elsewhere. But nearly all the cost of producing electricity from a waterpower plant is in the FIRST cost.

NO MATTER how unsound it may turn out to be economically, it is there, and it will always be more intelligent to operate it than to abandon it, once it is started.

The latest attack is from the mining industry. Julian D. Conover, secretary of the American Mining Congress, is trying to scare the northwest with the prospect of cheap imports pouring into their territory via the seaway AFTER the war.

Health and Diet

Vacation Ailments May Be Serious.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS article is really intended for directors of summer camps for boys and girls. I heartily subscribe to the value of these camps on the point of physical health and wholesome character training, but there are some dangers connected with them, and since their object is to promote health and not invalidism, these dangers should be faced in order to be overcome. I have no desire to scare parents off the idea, but certainly feel the camp director should be well informed of where the dangers are.

"Summer Camps and Acute Appendicitis" is the title of an editorial by my friend, Dr. Thurman B. Rice, health commissioner of Indiana, and while, as he says, there might not at first thought seem to be any connection between the two, there are several good reasons why camp directors should have the two things in mind.

Rough It Gradually.

A boy from the city (it also applies to girls, but we will stick to the boy because it is more apt to apply to him), used to city ways goes to a summer camp in the woods. He is told that he is going to rough it, and get tough and that he is not to be a baby but like an Indian. Now he is not like an Indian at all, and I think this is really one of the potential dangers of camp life—that he will try to get to be an Indian too suddenly.

He begins to live in a way that is totally foreign to him. His hours are different. He gets more exercise and exertion than he is used to. The food is coarser than what he gets at home. And he is at the age when he is particularly likely to have acute appendicitis.

About Stomach-Ache.

So one morning it may happen he comes down with a stomach-ache. And he has been told he mustn't be a baby and he is afraid to report it because he is afraid he will be called a sissy and the other boys will laugh at him. So he continues with his routine when he ought to be in bed, if not in the hospital.

If he reports to the camp director, that young outdoor enthusiast may decide that he is just homesick and wants to see his "Ma." Boys who complain are said to bellyache, so perhaps the camp director might be excused for being a little skeptical.

Or the third and worst possibility is that either the boy on his own initiative, or the camp director will give him a dose of a cathartic without any further examination. Of course, of all things not to do in any case of bellyache, the foremost is to give a cathartic; in appendicitis it may create a very dangerous situation. Then there may be delay, so operation, if necessary, is performed under the worst conditions.

The first thing to do in order to obviate all these mistakes is to take the boy's temperature. Regard all bellyaches seriously. And don't try to make the boys at camp too tough right away.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

'Squeeze Play' Pulled By Japan, Effort to Divide British Fleet

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—On President Roosevelt's desk is a stack of confidential naval reports from the Far East which show that there are two big squeeze-plays behind the squadron of Japanese transports and warships which silently dropped anchor off south Indo-China.

As far as the United States is concerned, this may be the most important move of the entire war. For here is the double squeeze-play:

1. The Japanese want to keep the United States so worried over the Far East that no more ships will be sent to protect British shipping in the Atlantic, or to take the Azores and police Dakar.

2. Japan also will force the British to keep part of their fleet around Singapore, thus preventing heavy British concentrations in the Near East.

More than two years ago the Washington Merry-Go-Round reported the concern of the navy department in case the fleet had to be spread out over two oceans at once. It looks as if this is exactly what the navy now faces.

Hitler's Time Table.

ALL of this Japanese maneuvering, according to the reports on Roosevelt's desk, is a definite part of the Hitler time-table. He has planned, first of all, to mop up the Red army before cold weather descends on the wind-swept plains of Russia.

After that, and during the equable winter weather of the tropics, he will concentrate on the Mediterranean, the Near East, Suez, and later on India. This was one reason the Nazis paid no attention to the British advance into Syria. They figured they could wait and later put the squeeze on Syria from two sides.

While the Nazis are busy in the Near East, it is the Hitler plan for a simultaneous Japanese move on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies. Thus the British will have to be fighting in two places at once, will have to spread their naval forces thin, just as it is Hitler's present intention to force the United States to spread its naval forces thin.

Inside word is that there's a definite deal between Hitler and the Japanese for division of the spoils in the Orient. Japan, according to U. S. intelligence advices, will get French Indo-China, Siam, the Philippines, Singapore and the Malays, the Dutch East Indies, and Burma.

Germany will get all the rest—India, Irac, Iran, Palestine, Egypt, and Syria—if, of course, Russia caves in and the Hitler time-table doesn't slow down. That is one big reason why there is so much rooting for Russia in Washington; why every military communique is put under the microscope so hopefully.

Defending Pacific.

AS FAR as the United States is concerned, the Japanese move finds us not in the best of shape. The Japanese know it, and that is one reason they are moving with impunity.

There is plenty of the fleet left in the Pacific to defend our side of the pond—and then some. But any action across the widest part of the Pacific around Singapore is something else again.

The Japanese also know that we have some PBY's around the Philippines and south. These are giant naval patrol bombers capable of cruising more than 5,000 miles. No attempt was made to hide the fact that these big bombers were flown out to the Philippines, Hawaii, Guam and Wake, and the Japanese know they are not to be sneezed at.

The reports on Roosevelt's desk do not indicate that Japan will attack Singapore or the Dutch East Indies now. Chief value of the present move is (1) to keep us from moving more ships into the Atlantic to take the Azores and other key islands; (2) to get entrenched in Indo-China ready for the attack when Hitler is ready to give the signal in the Near East.

The Japanese would have a tough time taking Singapore now; also the Dutch East Indies. They would have to wait until the British were materially weakened. But meanwhile they can, and probably will, take unfortified Borneo (belonging to the Dutch and British) in the relatively near future.

French Lessons.

IN VICHY these days, the French general staff has almost nothing to do except sit at little cafe tables and drink coffee. There were some good men on the French general staff, though bogged down by over-aged superiors.

And now with plenty of time on their hands, these officers occupy themselves with plotting what they would do if they were running the operations in the various war theaters.

Not long ago they gave to American newsmen in Vichy this formula for winning the war. If they were directing the strategy of the United States, they said, they would stage an immediate naval and bombing attack on Tokyo.

Japan is sure to come to grips with the United States anyway, they argued, so it is far better for the U. S. A. to pick the time of battle and its place rather than waiting until Japan and Germany have seriously weakened or knocked out the British fleet.

An American attack on Tokyo, the French general staff argued, would devastate the paper and bamboo capital, take Japan out of the war, and cause such terrific reactions on the German people that Hitler could hardly continue fighting.

What Europe is watching, said the French officers, is whether the United States really means business—and before it is too late. A strong initiative by the United States, they said, could easily end the war now.

Merry-Go-Round.

EDITORS of German-American newspapers, summoned to Washington for the trial of the German news agency, Trans-Ocean, enjoyed a profitable junket. One editor from the west coast, though not called on to testify, drew down $400 in expenses—5 cents a mile plus $4.50 per diem . . . British officials in Washington always send two copies of communications to London, one by sea and one by air. For a time, they found that nearly all seaborne correspondence was lost. Air mail was much safer. . . . A newsman entered a war department office which bore the letters "OUSW" on the door. He asked an army deskman what the letters meant. The deskman didn't know, and asked another. But he didn't know. Finally, the truth came out. "OUSW" stands for Office of the Under Secretary of War.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — As Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard's "more food for defense" program moves into its fourth month, some interesting things are becoming apparent.

One of them is that the fellow who last year brought himself a little chicken ranch "just to get away from it all" and the farmer who has been increasing his cattle herd of late, for lack of something better to do, are finding themselves riding the coattails of big defense business into an unexpected boom.

In other words, the butter-and-egg men are moving back to Prosperity Row.

There are such comparatively trivial things for instance as a prospective shortage of milking machines because of priorities in rubber and aluminum; sectional farm labor shortages; dislocations of markets through shifting populations to new defense industry and training centers.

But two things stand out: (1) domestic consumption is increasing much more rapidly than Agriculture Department experts estimated four months ago—and (2) it is becoming apparent now that export demands, under the lend-lease program, for certain essential processed milk and egg products, may be well above the original guesses.

The best proof of all this, without burdening you with all the statistical dope available, is prices. Over-all dairy prices on the farm on June 15 (the last figure available) were 21 per cent above a year ago—and still are rising. The farm price of eggs on the same date was 23.2 cents a dozen (a full 5 per cent above the department's parity price) and 8.8 cents a dozen higher than a year ago.

Experts Are Concerned.

BEHIND these prices (except for butter) lies a 15 to 25 per cent increase in domestic consumption and export increases in the last year, which range from practically nothing at all (on shell eggs and butter, for example) to such startling things as an increase from 32,441 cases of evaporated milk from January to April, 1940, to 493,196 cases in the same period this year; and for the same months an increase from 648,195 pounds of dry skim milk to 2,351,875 pounds—not to mention more than 250 per cent increase in export of egg products.

Over at the department of agriculture, the experts are staying up nights trying to figure out what all of this will mean to their program and how long they can keep public squawks and Price Hawk Leon Henderson from adding further complications.

Their greatest puzzlement at the moment is over the butter situation. Local butter consumption is up about 15 per cent since a year ago, it is true, but stocks on hand are twice what they were last year, there's no export demand, and during the months when butter should go down, it skyrocketed to 20 per cent over last year's June prices. Their only off-the-record guess is that maybe speculators have gotten into the churn.

Don't think, though, that Johnny Farmer and the bigger butter and egg men have been asleep. By June, they had almost met Wickard's challenge to increase milk production 3 per cent and there only remained the kinks of diverting the needed milk products (like skim milk which ordinarily is fed to hogs and calves) to new demand channels.

Ahead of Requests.

INCREASING the egg supply immediately isn't easy, but already they have tossed nearly 3 per cent more eggs into the market than in the first part of 1940 (Wickard only asked for 6 per cent more in 15 months). And there are two statistical points which indicate Johnny Farmer is even ahead of the Department of Agriculture. Come June, he had 8 per cent more chicks bobbing around the barnyard and had doubled his orders, over a year ago, for chicks to be delivered in late summer and early fall.

Adding all of it up, it seems to come down to the fact that agriculture experts needn't start hatching gray hairs until the public and price control agencies begin a pincers movement on rising consumer costs. Until then, their only worry will be trying to explain to the surplus crop farmers why so many of their butter-and-egg neighbors are moving to the Gold Coast.

A Farmer's Diary

Those Chinch Bugs

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOUR weeks ago, I sowed a four-acre field in proso — a new, Siberian millet. The soil was plowed deep and disked until the surface was fine and ready for the seed. The grain was so small that I seeded it successfully with a clover seeder. I put 25 pounds to the acre, when 20 might have been sufficient, and covered it with a spiketooth harrow.

Four days afterward, the seed came up, forming two small green leaves close against the dirt. I was delighted with the even job the seeder did and walked down every day to watch it grow. I visioned 50 bushels to the acre and wondered if we might fatten some extra hogs in addition to the seven pigs we have. This lasted just a week. Then the little plants stopped growing, withered and disappeared.

The strip that borders on the wheat has not a single living plant left, and inland toward my neighbor's pasture, just one small colony of stalks remains, besides an old wild cherry stump.

The cause—chinch bugs! The growing, ripening wheat had harbored them, and they emerged in destructive hordes to suck the sap from each stalk of newly sprouted grain. All the prospect of a fine new crop is gone, together with the cold cash I spent for seed and the labor of planting it. The price of feed is steadily going up. My plans were made in the best of faith—only they did not work.

I had a patch of late sweetcorn in the garden, bordering this same wheat field. To this thrifty patch of knee high corn, the chinch bugs came and now the stalks are black with filthy vermin.

So far Rotenone has been my standby for insect pests. I used it to protect roses, potatoes and cabbage with fine success. I got my duster and tried it on the corn—but next morning when I went to view the remains of dead and dying chinch bugs, hoping I should find them on the ground, feet up—they seemed to have thrived on the stuff and were running rings around the stems of corn in greater and greater numbers. When in righteous anger, I crushed a number between thumb and finger, they emitted such a stench that I did not dare bring my hand too near my face.

Farming is full of labor and disappointments. Seed catalogs just leave the chinch bugs out. Profits, on a farm, are many times deferred and often never materialize. Insect pests, dry weather, the cost of fertilizer, disease of stock and unsteady markets drive many honest farmers to the wall. It would be simpler to work at a steady job in a factory—yet I have decided to plant another patch of proso again next year.

Alternates named were Mrs. Fleet Parks, Mrs. Clem Meyers, Mrs. Eston Baird and Mrs. Eva Bont.

Galion Couple Wed Saturday In Quiet Ceremony

GALION — The marriage of Grace Schmitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmitz of Cleveland, and William Thran of Galion, son of Mrs. Georgia Lyons of Sugar Grove lake, took place Saturday in a ceremony in St. Patrick's Catholic church. Rev. Father William J. Killoran read the service.

The couple was attended by Rosemary and Rita Schmidt, sisters of the bride, and James Bryant, brother of the bridegroom, and Omar Wallace.

A reception at the Fairway, east of Galion, followed the ceremony. Later the couple left for a trip through the south. After Aug. 4. they will reside at 124 West Summit street, Galion.

Mrs. Thran who was graduated from St. Stephen's Academy in Cleveland, has been employed at the Stratbury Manufacturing company. Her husband was graduated from Logansport. Ind., high school, and is now a cutter at the Stratbury plant here.

ELEVEN FAMILIES HOLD ANNUAL GATHERINGS AT GALION PARK

GALION — Heise park chalked up a record day of the season Sunday, the shady grove and several attractions drawing crowds to the park.

As the city sweltered in the heat wave, hundreds enjoyed the cooling waters of the municipal pool. Others assembled at 3 p. m. and again at 8 p. m. to hear Max Good. evangelist, under the big tent where camp meetings have been in progress during the past week.

The third religious gathering was another in the series of summer union church services at 7 p. m. conducted by the Galion Ministerial association. Rev. H. R. Merle of the First Lutheran church giving the sermon.

Family reunions set an all-high for the season, when 11 such groups met at the park. To escape the heat of kitchens, many families went to the park for a picnic lunch at noon.

Reunions to meet Sunday included:

Sixty-five relatives came from Mansfield, Bucyrus, Galion, Leesville, and Lancaster, to attend the 28th annual Eusey reunion.

Officers chosen are: president, John Eusey of Galion; vice president, Frank Eusey of Galion; secretary-treasurer, Elwood Christman; chairman of arrangements; Ray Huber of Crestline.

Talks by the members and a program featured the afternoon hours when the 13th Adams reunion was held.

Officers elected were: president, Jud McCune, Galion; vice president, Adda LeFever, Columbus, secretary-treasurer, Fae Burr, of Cardington.

A short program was enjoyed during the afternoon when the Casto families held their 18th annual reunion at Heise park.

They elected the following officers: president, Lloyd Pittman, Galion; secretary-treasurer, Velma Bower, Lexington; program chairman, Bertha Bower, Lexington.

Oldest relative in attendance at the 17th annual Fetter reunion was Mrs. Mary Fetter, Cherry street, Galion, who will be 91 in August.

Officers elected for another year are: president, J. C. Fetter, Leesville; secretary, Mrs. Chester Bogan, North Robinson.

CHAPTER XIX.

The day the ship was to dock in New York seemed endless. Doris was up at six o'clock to finish her packing. She hastily threw her lovely clothes into suitcases. Clothes that she had packed so carefully, with such tender hands, and high hopes. What a waste of money they, too, had been! She would never be able to wear them now. If she were lucky enough to get back her job at Klane's basement, it certainly would not matter what she wore.

She applied make-up skillfully to cover the ravages of yesterday's emotions and dressed in her black tailored suit. Already the chilly winds of November would be sweeping New York.

May had not stirred when Doris slipped quietly out of their cabin and went on deck. Almost home! How long ago it seemed that she had leaned upon the rail watching the lights of New York disappear. How little, then, she had known about life!

At the far end of the deck she saw Jimmy. His back was turned to her, but she could imagine the expression in those stormy blue eyes. What thoughts were going through his mind on this dismal gray morning? Was he remembering how happy they had been? When with his arms about her they had planned their marriage and spoken of the future? Time when his lips had touched hers with thrilling possessiveness?

Or was Jimmy thinking of May Whittier and the lie she had told him? Was he hating Doris as he hated his showgirl wife?

Doris wanted to cry out to him, but pride would not allow it. She wanted to run to his side and draw his arm through hers as she had done so many times before. But she could not. For even if Jimmy believed her there was still her father.

Her heart was filled to the brim with grief and pain as she gazed at the man she loved. What cruel fate had brought this disaster upon them? She saw with a pang of tenderness those familiar, well tailored shoulders; the sleek black hair; the hand so tanned against the whiteness of the cigaret it held. Here in the gray morning Doris must watch, only watch. She could not go to him; she could not tell him what was in her heart. Only a few feet separated them on the lonely deck, yet there was a great wall between them—a wall of lies and intrigue—a wall built by May Whittier and George Malone.

Quietly Doris went back into the lounge and waited for breakfast. Though Jimmy occupied his usual place next to her at the table there was no conversation between them. Side by side, where once they had been so happy, they now sat as strangers. After breakfast Doris returned to her cabin, determined to avoid any further contact with Jimmy. It was hard enough when she did not see him, but to look at him, to know that he was close to her, made the situation intolerable.

The cabin was in a state of wild disorder. May had thrown her clothes over beds and chairs and piled her suitcases in the middle of the small floor space. Doris said nothing but curled up in the corner of her own bed and lit a cigaret.

"I never was any good at packing," May said, surveying the room in despair. "At home my maid does it."

"Really?" Doris said coldly, wondering if May expected her to help her. There seemed to be no limit to her nerve. And remembering that Jimmy had said May's family had lost their money, Doris doubted that she was telling the truth. Lying seemed to be May's outstanding accomplishment.

"Are you staying long in New York?" May inquired flippantly, throwing shoes and dresses in a heap upon the floor.

Doris did not answer.

May laughed. "Don't take it so hard," she advised. "All's fair in love, isn't it?"

"Love?" Doris repeated scornfully. "What would you know about that?"

"Maybe I'll learn. Jimmy seems to know a lot about it."

Doris wondered if it would be worse to go on deck and be followed by George Malone than to stay here and listen to May's infuriating prattle. She decided to stay. They would be in New York shortly after lunch. She could stand anything until then.

The ship was in a bustle of excitement. Stewards swarmed from cabin to cabin fastening baggage, doing last-minute cleaning, collecting tips for the voyage. Laughter echoed throughout the ship as the thrill of homecoming swept the passengers.

Doris had only a hundred dollars left after she gave her tips. Luckily her ticket to Detroit was in her handbag and she hoped to live on the hundred until she could get a job. One hundred out of five thousand! A wardrobe of useless expensive clothes and a broken heart! This was the end of the trip—the end of everything.

At luncheon Jimmy was absent from the table. Apparently he did not enjoy the situation any more than she did.

"Two more hours," Doris told herself valiantly as she went up to the lounge to write out a wire to Bonnie telling her when she would reach Detroit.

Before she could pick up a pen George Malone was at her side.

"Come into the bar," he commanded. "I want to talk to you."

Without replying, Doris rose and followed him.

"The police will be coming on board in a little while," he began.

Doris was silent.

"I hope," Malone said in a low voice, "that you are going to be sensible?"

"And if I'm not?"

"Then it will make the situation extremely unpleasant for Jimmy Allen."

Doris decided to give up. She could not risk Malone's threats. Whether he was bluffing or not, she could not afford to take a chance on finding out. Not when Jimmy's welfare was at stake.

"All right," she said. "I guess you win."

"I was sure you'd see it my way. When are you leaving for Detroit?"

"That's none of your business."

"Don't think you can lose me," Malone said menacingly. "After all I'm your father."

Doris looked at him coldly. "As far as I'm concerned, we've said our last words right now."

"Unfortunately you're wrong. We'll meet again—no doubt when you least expect it."

Doris escaped back to her cabin. It seemed there was no peace for her in any part of this ship. May had finally packed with the help of the stewardess but she had not left the cabin.

Drawing a smart brown hat over her red hair, May commented, "Coming home is always such fun. It's such a thrill to come into the harbor."

"Yes," Doris thought bitterly, "it would be fun if Jimmy Allen were standing beside you."

It could have been thrilling. But now May Whittier would watch the skyline with immy instead of with Doris. May would snuggle up to him and laugh into his eyes. Yet Doris and Jimmy had planned to be married as soon as they landed. Today might have been their wedding day!

Minutes dragged. . . . Baggage was moved into the corridors. . . . Passengers appeared in smart city clothes and the rail was crowded. . . . The Statue of Liberty. . . . The New York skyline, like a smoky dream on the horizon, the gray buildings blending strangely into the gray sky and water of the autumn day.

Doris stood at the rail. She did not see Jimmy Allen or May, but George Malone, she noticed, was watching her through a window from the lounge. Doris caught his look and turned away. He need not worry! His secret was safe—at least until she reached Detroit. But did he really believe that Doris would not make good her threat after she arrived at home? Or did he already have some devilish scheme in mind to checkmate her—to render her harmless to him?

Doris shivered and drew the collar of her fur jacket close about her throat. In spite of heartbreak and many misfortunes, she was glad to return to her own country. It had been thrilling to enter the magic harbor of Rio de Janeiro, to look down from the plane upon Buenos Aires, but it could not compare with the surge of emotion it gave her to look upon her own country.

And then, after the hours of waiting, they were ready to dock. Official routine moved along smoothly. Papers were shown, passports checked, and the doctor's report was made. Police came aboard. George Malone's eyes followed Doris as she turned in her papers and she smiled ironically at his anxiety. She saw Jimmy, passport in hand, coming out of his cabin, but they did not speak. She saw him again on deck with May. How strange it seemed to see him in an overcoat and hat.

FORMAL WEDDING HELD AT ST. MATTHEW'S

Double Ring Service Read for Miss Helen Baughman and W. Emmett McIntyre on Sunday Afternoon at 2:30 O'clock.

THE season of summer is marked with several important weddings which vie for interest with engagement announcements. Yesterday was another Sunday of nuptial events, adding more weddings to the list which gains impressive numbers each week.

Miss Helen Baughman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Baughman, 14 South Adams street, exchanged wedding vows with W. Emmett McIntyre, 246 Taylor road, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. McIntyre of Cincinnati, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before the altar of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church. Open church was observed for the double ring ceremony which was attended by many relatives and friends. Rev. Charles Sheriff officiated when Mr. Baughman gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Baughman was gowned in white slipper satin formal wedding gown made with a long train. The long sleeves were trimmed with medallion insets of Chantilly lace just below the shoulder puffs. Similar medallions trimmed the waist below the Sweetheart neckline. Her veil of bridal illusion was long, forming a train and in front was a short face veil. It was held in place by a circlet of orange blossoms with pearl centers. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetpeas, swansonia and gardenias.

Attending Miss Baughman were Miss Mary Weimer of Akron as maid of honor and Miss Marlene Wierman, bridesmaid. Miss Carolyn Miller, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Their dainty sheer frocks were made in similar style over taffeta. The young women wore floor length dresses made with gathered waists. The sleeves were full elbow-length and the bodices had round necklines. White silk rickrack edged the neckline and wide girdle and outlined large loops at the bottom of the skirts. Miss Weimer's marquisette frock was in deep orchid, Miss Wierman in powder blue net and Miss Miller in pastel green net.

Tiny matching net hats tied with long ribbon streamers were worn by the bride's attendants. Miss Weimer carried a semi-Colonial bouquet of Talisman roses and gladioli tips. Miss Wierman's bouquet was of the same type with yellow roses and gladioli tips. Little Miss Miller's bouquet was smaller Colonial grouping of mixed flowers.

Mrs. Baughman appeared at the wedding in a navy blue sheer with white accessories and she wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. McIntyre's frock was navy sheer with natural accessories and she wore a corsage of mixed flowers.

David Francis of Mansfield served as best man and ushers were Donald Spayde and Howard Baughman, brother of the bride.

The ceremony was read before an altar decorated with beauty baskets of white gladioli and greenery which was lighted by the glowing seven branch candelabra.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Anna Klippel whose organ selections were "Romance" by Rubenstein, "Ave Maria," by Schubert, "At Dawning" by Cadman," "Because," by D'Hardelot. She also played the traditional wedding marches and during the ceremony the soft strains of Bohm's "Calm as the Night," was heard. Mrs. Charles Sheriff favored with the vocal selection, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," by Stultz.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Miller, Westview boulevard. Mrs. Miller is a sister of the bride. One hundred guests were present for the open house. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre left for a trip. For traveling she wore a brown and white redingote ensemble with white accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 1092 Park avenue west in a newly built residence.

The bride has been employed as clerk-stenographer at the Mansfield police department. Mr. McIntyre is employed at the Happy Harry House.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney and Harry Sheckter of Akron, Mrs. John Fletcher of Flemingsburg, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. E. K. McIntyre of Cincinnati, Mrs. John Weimer and daughter, Mary Catherine of Akron, Mrs. Jack Woods, Mrs. Edward Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grote of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elson of Ashland.

Officers Are Named At Meet Of Societies

Federated Patriotic society members named a committee to aid in national defense Sunday when they held a picnic and regular meeting at North Lake park. Members of the committee, who were appointed by the president, Miss Mary Beilstein, are Mrs. Bessie Buchanan, Fred Hein, and Mrs. Sarah Case. Preceding the business session dinner was served at long tables decorated with garden flowers.

Officers for the coming season appointed by the president are, first color bearer, Mrs. Helen Edmonstone; second color bearer, Miss Bessie Buchanan; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Elsie Tresler, and pianist, Mrs. Gladys Teeters. Miss Beilstein gave a report on the patriotic convention held recently at Columbus, in the absence of the delegate, Mrs. Mary Somers.

Mrs. Catherine Sattler gave a talk on the reunion of Civil war veterans that is being held Aug. 9 and 10 at Camp Grand, Clyde, Ohio. At the close of the meeting Marilyn Joyce Teeters offered several piano selections. The next meeting will be held Oct. 26 at North Lake park pavilion.

Continue Parties For Couple Wed In Loudonville

Continuing the series of lovely nuptial parties for Mr. and Mrs. Larry Glover of Loudonville was the affair given Saturday evening at the Dudte home, near Loudonville. Before her recent marriage Mrs Glover was Marjorie Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Donald Bender, 116 Grover street.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Dudte were hosts for the social event which was attended by 25 guests. Games and contests were the diversions and the group surprised the young couple with a shower of miscellaneous gifts. At a late hour luncheon was served at small tables attractively decorated with appointments in the pastel colors. The hosts also gave Mr. and Mrs. Glover a gift.

CLUB PICNIC.

Twenty members of the Child Conservation club and their families were present Sunday afternoon at a picnic held at Yarger's picnic grove on the South Main street road. Following the dinner the guests played games and contests. Mrs. Ted Banks was in charge of arrangements. Meetings of the club will be resumed this fall.

Pretty Play Suit

Prettied-up play outfit for a bride—huge Puerto Rican sunshade sombrero, striped cotton playsuit with pleated ruffles widening the shoulders. Dutch clog sandals with wooden shoes. Worn by film actress Anne Gwynn.

Mrs. Laser Feted At Post-Nuptial Party Recently

Mrs. Henry Distl, 212 South Foster street, entertained in honor of her sister, Mrs. William Laser, a recent bride. The post-nuptial honor was given recently for the pleasure of the former Eleanor Boock. Bingo was the diversion and prizes were won by Miss Elizabeth Frisch and Mrs. Paul Carr. Garden flowers decorated the home.

Luncheon was served at a late hour from a long table decorated with appointments in the pastel colors, floral centerpiece and lighted tapers. The group surprised Mrs. Laser with a shower of miscellaneous gifts, and Mrs. Distl gave her an electrical gift.

Mrs. Clifton Laser will honor Mrs. William Laser at a party at her home, 54 State street, Thursday evening.

Tailored Lines Are Coming Style Trend

By ORRY-KELLY
Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For INS

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Tailoring at its best is seen in the majority of the clothes worn by Merle Oberon and Rita Hayworth in their latest film, "Affectionately Yours." We're making a point of that particular aspect of these frocks because fashion is indicating tailored garments for morning, noon and night. You're going to see all the beloved suit details in everything you wear from bathing suits to evening gowns.

By way of getting into the tailored frame of mind we'll describe two striking suits the girls wear. Merle's costume, in the ever popular magpie combination of black and white, has the new rever-less long jacket form-fitted with lengthy tucks and seams at the waistline and combined with a slender skirt in gray-black. You'd wear, as Merle does, a very lacy, frilly jabot blouse with regency ruffles flowing over the front of the jacket. For the dressmaker touch that fashion also demands, you'll clip two diamonds on each side.

When you say "something tailored" you immediately think of lines that run straight and true, but fashion has changed her ways even here this season. Lines may now curve as gently as scroll printing and still remain tailored. Glimpse Merle's afternoon dress in turquoise flannel with simple top and slender skirt. Horizontal tucks radiate into a slight drape in the front. The waistline is girded with a flat bowknot belt of black suede.

While many of the evening gowns are as romantic as an 18th century novel, others contrast with tailoring in the most modern manner. Rita's dinner gown in beige has a slide fastened front and curved neckline, twelve-inch seams and low tailored pockets to indicate the low waistline. Fitted lines withal, but softened with an oversized yellow chiffon handkerchief falling from one pocket to the hemline.

Ceremony at Jones Home

BEFORE an improvised altar in the bay window of the living room at the Leonard Jones home, 646 Dickson Parkway, their niece, Miss Mary Adelaide Rottman of Millersburg exchanged nuptial vows with Mast Carl Miller, also of Millersburg, Sunday afternoon. The single ring service witnessed by the immediate families was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Lighted tapers in seven-branch candelabra lent their glow to the decorations of palms, ferns and large bowls of white gladioli and white asters.

Miss Rottman, daughter of Mr. Carl Rottman of Millersburg, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white ninon over white taffeta. The long full sleeves were fastened at the wrist band of lace, and rows of lace insertion trimmed the sleeves. A very full skirt fell gracefully from the fitted waistline. Lace insertion also trimmed the skirt. Her veil was of circular style, shoulder length and held in place with a floral arrangement of small white asters and euphorbia.

Her only attendant was a cousin, Miss Janet C. Schuler of Dayton. Her formal frock of white sheer crepe was fashioned Grecian style and trimmed with narrow bands of gold braid at the V-neckline, sleeves and girdle.

Miss Rottman carried a hand bouquet, round in style, made of gardenias, white roses and euphorbia with tufts of white maline used through the bouquet instead of greenery. It was tied with white satin ribbon. Miss Schuler's bouquet was of similar style and composed of white asters, shasta daisies and euphorbia, tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Mrs. Jones attended her neice's wedding in a sheer brown print and wore a corsage of Talisman roses tied with matching ribbons. Mrs. Miller, mother of the bridegroom, wore a sheer rose print frock and a corsage of Joanna Hill roses and white gladioli. Warren Miller, of Millersburg, served his brother as best man.

Following the nuptials a reception was held at the Jones home. The low buffet table was attractive with a flat unusual arrangement of mixed flowers and a tiered wedding cake. Later in the day the young couple left for a trip to Atlantic City and New York City. After Aug. 4 they will be at home at 3412 Felician street, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Miller wore an ensemble of red and white for her going-away costume.

She is a graduate of Ohio State university. Mr. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Miller, received his degree at Ohio State. He is an engineer for the International Harvester company.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were three sisters and a brother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Palmer of Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman R. Critchfield and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Middaugh of Wooster, Mrs. Mabel Fisk of Millersburg and Mrs. John Schuler and son, Judson of Columbus.

Galion Girl Marries Dayton Principal Sunday

GALION—One of the prettiest home weddings of the season in Galion was that solemnized Sunday when Muriel M. Ricker repeated vows with Edwin H. Swaim of Cincinnati, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Ricker of 220 Grove avenue.

The service was read by Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of First Reformed church, at 2 o'clock, in the presence of 50 relatives and friends. All white flowers were used to decorate the improvised altar, and the white arch under which the couple stood. Before the ceremony, Carol Ruth and Donna Mae Sherer, twin cousins of the bride, wearing light blue taffeta gowns with long full skirts, lighted the tapers in the candelabra and placed the white walk.

Mrs. Fred Varga of Mansfield, accordion player, and Mary Eleanor Schiewetz of Dayton, pianist, played the "Beta Sweetheart Song," and the "Alpha Omega Pi sorority Sweetheart Song" before the bride descended the stairs on the arm of her father. The traditional wedding march was played for the processional.

The bridal gown was fashioned of white marquisette, lace inserted across the bodice and over the shoulders. The sleeves were long and full, and the long sweeping skirt fell into a semi-formal train. The finger-tip length veil was caught to a tiarra of seed pearls. A strand of pearls completed the bridal outfit, and the shower bouquet was arranged with a smaller corsage which the bride wore with her traveling outfit.

Dorothy Ricker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor Her gown was made of pink marquisette and rose lace trimmed the skirt, sweetheart neckline and balloon sleeves. The junior bridesmaid was another sister, Ruth Ricker, whose gown of marquisette was blue, fashioned like that of the maid of honor. Triple strands of pearls were worn by the Ricker girls, and they carried arm bouquets of colonial arrangement. Shoulder-length veils were attached to shirred tiarras worn on their heads.

The best man was Melvin C. Fink of Cincinnati, close friend of the bridegroom.

The bride's brother, Howard, ushered the guests to their places.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Ricker wore an outfit of navy, with corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Homer Swaim of Cincinnati, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and white print, and her corsage was of gardenias.

Guests were served during the reception that followed, from the dining room table which was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake and white tapers in silver candle holders. Helping to serve were Wilma Groh of Toledo, cousin of the bride; Betty Jean Swaim of Cincinnati, sister of the bridegroom; and Dorothy Neff of Canton.

Brown faille fashioned the summer suit that the new Mrs. Swaim wore for a short wedding trip. A large white picture hat and other white accessories harmonized with the white blouse.

After August 15, the newlyweds will go to housekeeping in a newly built home at 2570 Catalpa Drive, Dayton.

For the past two years, the bride was commercial instructor in the Galion High school. She was graduated from Miami university in 1939, where she affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Mr. Swaim is the son of Mr. and Mrs Homer Swaim of Cincinnati. He received his B. S. degree from Miami university in 1938, and his M. A. from Miami university on July 18 this year. At the university he was a member of Beta Theta Pi social fraternity. For the past three years he has been Industrial Education instructor in Dayton schools, and this year will be assistant principal at McKinley Vocational school in Dayton.

There were guests present for the wedding from Cincinnati, Dayton, Canton, Columbus, Toledo, Bellvue, Mansfield, and Flint, Mich.

Pastor Officiates At Wedding Service Of S

REV. S. S. DAVIS of Ashland officiated at the pretty wedding ceremony for Miss Marjorie Bletz, South Main street road, and his son, Rev. James R. Davis of Ashland, last evening. The single ring service was solemnized before the altar of the St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church, South Main street road, at 8 o'clock. Friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

Reminiscent of dainty summer flowers were the formal gowns of the attendants for Miss Bletz. Miss Clara Bletz, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing blue moire. Bridesmaids were Miss Joan Baer and Miss Janice Baer, cousins of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Hartson, all wearing identical frocks of pink marquisette. Miss Bletz carried yellow roses and the bridesmaids, sweetpeas in the pastel colors.

To the strains of the wedding march the bride approached the altar in a lovely gown of soft white ninon, made with fitted waistline, long full sleeves and a high neckline trimmed with Chantilly lace collar.. The dress was fashioned with a long train and her illusion veil was finger tip length. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby breath.

The ceremony was read before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and low arrangements of garden flowers in the foreground. A tall basket of white gladioli and two seven - branch candelabra formed an attractive background. The soft glow of lighted tapers illuminated the aisle for the bridal party.

Ushering the guests to their seats were Dean Wolf of Ashland, Herbert Garnes, Richard Lehnhart and Howard Bletz, brother of the bride, all of Mansfield.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Evangeline Bletz, sister of the bride, and Emerson Bletz, a brother, sang. The selections were "Ave Maria" and "Serenade" by Schubert, "Calm as the Night" by Bohm, "Jesus Savior Pilot Me," "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, (played during the ceremony) "All for You," "Because" and "O Promise Me." The last three were sung by Mr. Bletz.

Benjamin Davis of Ashland served his brother as best man.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FIGURING THE CHANCES

If you sit down with three players of equal ability, you have one chance out of two to win a rubber. You have one chance out of four to win any two consecutive rubbers, which can finish any of four different ways: 1, you win them both; 2, you lose them both; 3, you win the first and lose the second; 4, you lose the first and win the second. You have one chance of eight to win three in succession, one out of 16 to win four in a row, one out of 32 to win five, one out of 64 to win six. Carrying this out for 20 in a row, your chances are one out of the following:

7.	128	14.	16,384
8.	256	15.	32,768
9.	512	16.	65,536
10.	1,024	17.	131,072
11.	2,048	18.	262,144
12.	4,096	19.	524,288
13.	8,192	20.	1,048,576

In other words, if four equally matched players sat down to play 20 rubbers, you would have one chance out of 1,048,576 to win them all. Conversely, if you played 1,048,576 contests of 20 rubbers each, you have an exactly even chance to make a clean sweep of some one of those 20-rubber contests. That series would entrail 20,971,520 rubbers. If you had an even chance to make a clean sweep of some one of those 20-rubber contests, then the chances would be that you would make one such clean sweep in each stretch twice that long, or once in every 41,943,040 rubbers.

These questions have been raised by a number of fans since the writer of this department won 20 consecutive rubbers, in five installments of social play — two evenings of six rubbers, followed by two quick sessions of two rubbers each, then by the first four rubbers of another evening. The odds against his being the winner in all 20 of those rubbers are as give above.

Playing a moderate amount of rubber bridge, which would average about eight rubbers a week, or 416 in a year, it would take quite a while to repeat that string. In fact, if all of those rubbers were reckoned in terms of separate series of 20, you would have to divide the 416 rubbers a year into the 41,943,040 rubbers. Figured thus, such a 20-consecutive-rubber winning streak would come along once every 100,824 years. And, honestly, we really don't expect to be on earth that long.

Of course, if the skill of the players is not equal, those odds can be upset very greatly. But there hardly is any way to express difference in skill by a strict mathematical formula.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

First place in your workaday wardrobe will be taken by Pattern 9770! For if your figure is in the thirty-six-to-fifty size range, you know how essential simple lines and roomy fit are to comfort and good looks. There are no waistline seams—just flowing princess lines, a soft-cut bodice and darted shoulders. Pockets are optional; the belt may start with side-front points and tie in back, or go all around. You'll like the optional touch of zig-zag edges at the neck and short sleeves. Use ric-rac to brighten the panels of this house-and-garden style!

Pattern 9770 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards 35 inch fabric.

CELLOPHANE COVERS

Modern protective wrapping for picnic food and accessories has turned the once casual outdoor meal into a festive occasion. Sandwiches, hard-boiled eggs, and other picnic favorites wrapped in sparkling transparent "Cellophane" cellulose film not only remain clean and tasty but have a gala appearance that stimulates the appetites.

Moistureproof "Cellophane," which now comes in a handy household dispensing package, prolongs the freshness of food. The cardboard container is equipped with a metal strip so a sheet of the required length can be neatly cut without removing the roll from the box. Cut melons, protected with this moistureproof wrapping, will not dry out. Lettuce stays crisp longer and strong cheese will not project its odor to other foods in the picnic basket.

The transparency of the wrapping makes it easy to identify the contents of the package.

Knives have now been added to sets of wooden utensils packaged in "Cellophane." Paper napkins are available in extra-large size that amply protect the lap and won't slide off at every gust of wind. A "Cellophane" zip-tape simplifies opening the package and leaves a handy envelope for storage.

Ham Salad Sunday Supper

By BETSY NEWMAN

If you have invited the "gang" to Sunday night supper and don't know what to give them try this menu. The ham salad is not hard to prepare, and is filling and tasty.

Today's Menu.

Ham Salad
Fresh Buttered Peas
Hot Rolls Olives
Fresh Strawberries
Spiced Crab Apples
Coffee Pecan Macaroons

Ham Salad.

2 hard boiled eggs
1½ cups cooked ham
1½ cups celery
½ cup cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons horseradish

Combine diced celery and diced ham. Whip cream, fold in mayonnaise and grated horseradish, add a dash of pepper; fold in ham and celery. Line plates with crisp lettuce and watercress, pile ham mixture in center, garnish with slices of hard boiled eggs and slices of stuffed olives. Serves 4 or 5.

Peanut Macaroons

1 cup pecan or other nut meats
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg white
¼ teaspoon salt

Scald nut meats by pouring hot water over them, drain and chop coarsely. Be sure brown sugar is free from lumps, then measure by packing well into cup. Grease baking sheet. Set oven at 300 degrees F. Break egg white into mixing bowl, add salt, and beat until it stands up in peaks. Add brown sugar 1 tablespoon at a time, beating in each spoonful before adding the next, then fold in pecans. Drop from tip of spoon onto prepared baking sheet and bake until nicely brown and firm—15 or 20 minutes. Remove from sheet at once and put on cake rack to cool.

Put some slivers of almonds in the filling of your next cherry pie.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My throat constricted so sharply at Stephen Redfield's question that for an instant I thought I could not find voice to answer him.

"Why, yes, Mr. Redfield, I am alone. But can't you come over here in the morning just as well? I am really too tired to talk to anyone."

Redfield Is Insistent.

"Please believe me that I am terribly distressed to inconvenience you," he said, but it is really vitally necessary for me to see you for a few minutes. I will not keep you long. And—I know that after you have seen me, you will be very glad to have granted my request. It happens to concern you—or someone close to you— very deeply."

"You sound exactly like an agent for a kidnapper," I said gaily, making another warning gesture to the tense figures of both Mary and Philip Veritzen. "Whom am I supposed to ransom, please?"

It was his turn to catch his breath. Then he also took refuge in jesting.

Must Wait Five Minutes.

"Unfortunately you haven't billions at your command," he said. "That is what it would take to ransom you or Mary, and nobody else I know is worth a copper cent. But, laying that all aside, it means much to me—and to you."

The note of steel in his voice deepened.

"I do trust you will see fit to see me, at once, Mrs. Graham," he said.

"I am afraid I am not impressed, Mr. Redfield," I said, and I let a meaning inflection creep inuto my own voice. "You cannot possibly have anything of vital moment to say to me. But if it will make you feel easier, I will see you. Knock at my door in five minutes."

Again the sharp inhalation of his breath came to my ears.

"But—" he began, and my interruption was sharp and incisive.

"Not a second sooner, please, or I cannot admit you," I said. "Goodbye."

Mary Scents Danger.

As I hung up the receiver Mary literally sprang at me and, seizing my shoulders, gave me an exasperated—and frightened—shake.

"Auntie Madge! are you crazy?" Mary babbled. "He must have gone out of his mind. And, if he has, it's dangerous for you to see him."

"Mary! Please!" The two words in Philip Veritzen's best mandatory manner silenced his daughter-in-law immediately.

"The insufferable, conceited ass!" Mr. Veritzen exploded. "If he were not so marvelous a foil for Mary's performance, he never would speak another line on any stage of mine. You cannot mean seriously what you told him about seeing him? If you and Mary will go into the other room and keep silent, I, myself, will open the door to Mr. Redfield when he comes, and deal effectively with him."

"I am sorry, Philip, to go against your advice," I said firmly, "but it is necessary that I see him."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 29.

The astral forces bearing on the affairs of this day are definitely in the direction of expansion, growth, advancement and excellent opportunity for reaching high goals of achievement and gratification. It is a time to work for such objectives largely by cultivating the friendly aid of those in power and financial standing, whose co-operation will be invaluable. But this approach should be tactful and conservative rather than impetuous, argumentative or forceful. Strenuous efforts might prove futile, and also there is some danger of connivance or irregularity. Sign papers cautiously. Some changes in plans may be looked for.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the brink of a year of splendid opportunity for the realization of major ambitions, with support, preferment and financial backing from those in high places. These should be approached with finesse rather than aggressively, or with turbulence, impetuosity or argument. Vigilance as to deception, fraud or irregularities is enjoined, and it may be necessary to make compromises as to plans and details in order to attain this friendly assistance. With tact there should be gain, growth, promotion and enhanced prestige and popularity.

A child born on this day should have much efficiency, adaptability and power for attaining high ambitions, greatly assisted by its personal popularity and prestige.

Braves Score 13 Runs In One Inning, Win Two Games

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Ohio State League President Joe Donnelly was moaning yesterday over the difficulty he's having in finding umpires to replace Mort Watkins and Ralph Bulmon.

I'll let Joe tell you the story much as he told it to me.

"I had a great recommendation on a guy from Milwaukee," says Joe, "a fellow who had been umpiring for 14 years, had been picked to work the Wisconsin state amateur tournament, and had decided it was time for him to start working in professional leagues.

"So I hired the guy and released Watkins, but you see Watkins out there working today's game.

"If I hadn't just happened to be in Findlay the night this new fellow works his first and last game, there'd have been a riot.

"He starts behind the plate, and a longer guesser on balls and strikes I've never seen. He'd wait until the catcher had returned the ball to the pitcher before starting to wave his thumbs.

"I yelled at Bulmon to get that guy out of there, so Bulmon goes to the plate and this fellow takes over the base job.

"And right away he calls three perfect decisions on the paths on close plays, and in the next inning he guesses right on three more close ones, and I begin to think I'd misjudged the guy.

"And then he calls a runner out at first when he was safe by two steps and the storm breaks loose.

"I didn't waste any time tying the can to him after the game and you can be sure of that.

* * *

"I asked him how long he'd been umpiring, and back he comes with that 14-year rumor. Said he was a little nervous that day because it was his first game in the league.

"Boy, he'll never know how nervous he made me.

"So I told him if he umpired 20 years more he'd still never be an umpire and he would do well to hurry back to Milwaukee.

"No sir, these umpires don't grow on trees, but I'm still scouring the bushes to see if I can find one."

Oldster Rescues Indians

Heving Snaps Five Game Losing Streak With Win.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians, sporting their first victory of the current eastern trip, moved into this Piedmont league city today for an exhibition game. Ken Jungels was slated to hurl.

Joe Heving, the oldest pitcher on the Cleveland staff, shut out Boston yesterday, 4 to 0, to snap a five-game losing streak. It was the fifth triumph of the season for the 37-year-old right-hander, who has been used principally in relief roles.

* * *

He scattered six hits and issued only one base on balls—an intentional pass to Ted Williams. Eight assists by Ken Keltner on hard chances and two double plays helped the lanky Kentuckian.

Ray Mack's sixth home run paced an eight-hit Cleveland assault on Tex Hughson and Mike Ryba.

Apparently in hitting stride after being benched for plate weakness, Mack blasted a double in the fifth and scored on Rollie Hemsley's scorching triple. Mack's circuit blow came with two men out in the ninth.

The decision put the Indians four games ahead of Boston in their battle for second place and cut New York's league lead to 11½ games.

* * *

The Brooklyn Dodgers are wobbling on the edge of a precipice—and everybody is wondering whether they will get pushed off, or just fall over of their own accord.

* * *

They dropped another doubleheader to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 4-3 and 8-0, to fall two full games behind the St. Louis Cardinals in the struggle for the National league pennant.

For seven innings of the opener, portly Fred Fitzsimmons exerted his jinx over the Pittsburghers but finally had to retire because of the 90-degree heat. Then in the ninth Maurice Van Robays exploded a double with the bases loaded against Curt Davis and won the game.

In the nightcap, Truett (Rip) Sewell pitched a five-hit shutout and the Buccaneers blasted out eight runs in one big fifth-inning during which Van Robays again doubled with the bases filled and Vince DiMaggio hit a homer with two on.

The Dodgers now have lost seven of their past nine contests, and the crisis may come later this week when the Dodgers invade St. Louis for the last series of their western swing.

The Cardinals were not especially impressive yesterday in dividing a double-header with the Boston Braves. They lost the first, 12-10 and took the second, 8-6. Boston bunched four runs in the first inning and the same number in the ninth of the first game, and in between Phil Masi hit two home runs and Frank Demaree one. Howard Krist got credit for his eighth victory without defeat in the afterpiece, although he had to be rescued by Harry Gumbert.

Cincinnati split a pair with the Phillies in a "Paul Derringer day" program. Derringer won the opener, 2-0, with five-hit pitching, and John Podgajny then held the Reds to four hits in the nightcap and triumphed 8-1.

The Chicago Cubs stopped the New York Giants in a single tilt, 9-2.

In the American league, the New York Yankees finally were beaten after winning nine in a row. They took the first half of a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 9-5, but lost the second, 7-3, to Lefty Thornton Lee. This still left them 11½ games in front of the Cleveland Indians.

The big noise in the junior circuit continued to come from Philadelphia where the Athletics swept a double bill from the Detroit Tigers, 8-1 and 7-0, to advance into an almost exact tie with the White Sox for fourth place.

The A's have won seven of their past eight encounters.

Washington advanced out of the cellar at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, whom the Senators trimmed twice, 4-3 and 5-3.

Trojan Coach Dies

HOWARD JONES

Coach Howard Jones, of the University of Southern California, one of football's greatest figures, died at his home yesterday in suburban North Hollywood of a heart attack. Jones, who was 55, had been head coach at USC since 1925. Under him the Trojan teams, formerly rated as mediocre, climbed to the peak of football fame.

Providents Beat Ashland

Come From Behind To Cop Decision.

The Mansfield Provident Loans, state girl's softball champions, defeated the Ashland Providents 5-2 yesterday at Ashland.

Ashland picked up a two run lead in the first three innings, but the Mansfield club gradually turned on the heat, scoring in each of the last three innings, as they held the home club scoreless, to cop the decision.

* * *

Herrick and Tipul led the Mansfield seven hit attack. Roberts, Gray and Gordon split the home club's three bingles given up by Knapp.

* * *

The Mansfield club will play a double-header at the Fairground Wednesday in an effort to raise money to pay their expenses to the state tournament at Youngstown two weeks away.

* * *

One game will be played with the Akron Merchants, the other with a Massillon club.

The Merchants have a full-blooded Indian girl playing rover who is rated one of the fastest girl softball players in the state.

The first game is booked at 7.30 p. m.

Vic Alderson and Burton Dicker took the one doubles match from Tapper and Betz 6-0, 4-6, 6-1.

Schedules for play during the remainder of this week will be arranged today and announced in Tuesday's News-Journal.

Death Claims Coach

Howard Jones Cut Down By Heart Attack.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Football Coach Howard Jones died yesterday, leaving leaderless the University of Southern California football machine which he made famous.

A heart attack cut down the 55-year-old Trojan mentor as he was preparing for the start of a new football season Sept. 8. He had been Southern California's coach since 1925, and since 1934 had been earning $15,000 a year.

* * *

There was no immediate action regarding a successor. Since most coaches have been engaged for the year, however, many informed circles believed Justin M. (Sam) Barry, long Jones' top-ranking assistant, might be given the responsibility of directing the team this fall, at least.

Jones brought Barry here from Iowa in 1929 after he had used him as an assistant at the Hawkeye school. Barry is head baseball and basketball coach.

Jones' coaching record of 29 seasons listed 194 victories, 65 defeats and 21 ties. At Southern California his teams won 121 games, lost 36 and tied 13. Twenty of his players were acclaimed all-American, 11 of them at U.S.C.

Five Jones-coached Trojan teams represented the Pacific Coast in the Rose Bowl game. All were victorious.

His teams four times broke long victory strings of great Notre Dame elevens, most sensationally in 1931 when the Trojans, trailing 14 to 0, rallied in the final quarter to win 16 to 14.

His most exciting Rose Bowl triumph was the 7-3 defeat of Duke in 1939. Duke, unscored upon all season, led 3-0 in the final minute. Then the Trojans, from deep in their own territory, completed four passes in succession for a touchdown.

* * *

At their height, Jones' teams were the most spectacular powerhouses of gridiron history, well meriting their name, "The Thundering Herd."

* * *

Few people really knew Howard Jones. He was rated difficult to know. But he was an easy man to love and respect once you were permitted to penetrate that mantle of aloofness that cloaked his exterior.

Fame came to Howard Jones with all the heart aches and setbacks that fame demands. He took the glory, the triumphs, heartbreaks and disappointments in the stride of a gentleman and true sportsman.

Jones was the idol of thousands in those years when his great teams marched proudly from one smashing victory to another. Oddly enough, he was never one to seek out tributes. He was always too "gol-darned" busy—busy shaping the athletic destiny of those boys on his teams, busy planning new playing tactics, busy preparing for that inevitable "next year" in football.

The headman had his hard, bitter years, which must have taken a toll in physical endurance. But he was a fighter. A plugging, methodical fighter without an ounce of surrender.

Remember those dull, losing seasons after he lost his brilliant stars of the early 30's?

The fair weather brigade was shooting at him from all directions.

Then came that first game in 1938, when Alabama traveled west and kicked the Trojans all over the coliseum. The ding-dongers hammered harder than ever at Howard Jones.

But they misjudged the man. Grimly, Jones moulded a championship club, steered it through every other opponent and sent it flying into the Rose Bowl. Then he sat back and saw his kids knock over a mighty Duke eleven which hadn't been beaten or even scored upon all season.

The yammer-boys hushed up. They haven't been heard since.

Jones first played the game as a boy in nearby Excello, O., his birthplace, and was an end on the Middletown, O., high school's team.

A brother, Tom, who lives in Middletown recalled that Jones attended grade school at Excello, crossroads town two miles south of here and then known as Amanda. After two years at Middletown high school, where he also pitched for the baseball team, Jones went to Phillips-Exeter academy at Exeter, N. H.

Tom and another brother, Clarence, operate the paper manufacturing plant their father, Thomas A. Jones, founded at Excello. Two aunts, Miss Elizabeth Harding and Mrs. H. R Engle live at Excello.

Jones' team at Ohio State in 1910 won six, lost one and played three ties.

Jones was born at Excello, O., Aug. 23, 1885. At Phillips-Exeter academy and at Yale he was a good end, out-shone by his all-American quarterback brother, Tad.

Jones coached with varied success well at Syracuse university and spectacularly at Yale.

After a poor year at Duke university, Jones came to Southern California in 1925.

Other survivors include his widow, Jane; a son, Clark, and a daughter, Carolyn; his brothers, Tad, former Yale coach, of New Haven, Conn.; and a sister, Mrs. Gerald Sawyer, Lima, O.

Jones was divorced in Denver from Mrs. Leah Clark Jones in 1926, and married Mrs. Jane Dean Ridley, sister of the late William Dean, former Army all-American halfback against whom Jones had played at Yale.

Funeral arrangements awaited word from the relatives.

Third Inning Rally Sinks Willard Nine

The Ontario ball club took the Willard nine into camp with a 7-4 victory at Ontario, yesterday.

* * *

A big third inning during which the home club pushed six of its seven runs across the plate proved Willard's undoing.

H. Hamman and Cotter led the Ontario attack, Hamman collecting two doubles in four trips.

D. Buss sparked the Willard batsmen, who nicked Petie Beer for eight bingles, smashing two triples in four times up. H. Moore of the visiting club teed off for the only homer of the tilt.

Shelby Bows To Liberties

J. Atton and Moritz Sparkle In Victory.

The Liberty Park ball club defeated Shelby 9-4 yesterday at Liberty park behind the sparkling bats of J. Atton and Moritz who collected seven of the winners' 10 hits between themselves.

Leading five to three as they went into the eighth the Liberty club turned on the steam with a four run rally that put the clincher on the win.

Shelby came back to score a run in second half of the eighth and the game ended without further scoring.

R. Baker, Burge and King did the heavy work for Shelby. The losing club picked up eight bingles but left 10 men stranded on base.

The Liberties were in a light fingered mood as they stole 11 bases from the visitors. Shelby took three from the home club.

Smashing Attack Smothers Fremont

Six-Run Rally Pulls Second Game Out of Fire for Tribe

FOLLOWERS of the Mansfield Braves are a bug-eyed lot of fans today, still talking about the smashing double-victory scored by the Tribe yesterday over the Ohio State league's first-half champion Fremont Green Sox 22 to 9 and 11 to 8. The Braves are now just half a game behind Fremont in the second-half race.

Over 500 of the faithful braved the torrid weather, and were rewarded by a 13-run first inning* chalked up by the Mansfield club at the Fairground.

The 13 markers tied the Ohio State league record for one inning, held jointly by Mansfield and Lima, the previous Mansfield splurge having been recorded in the 1939 season.

Delayed when their bus broke down, the Green Sox didn't arrive at the yard until nearly 2 o'clock, and with the first game of the double header scheduled for 1:30 the boys weren't given much time to warm up.

But the Braves were plenty warm, as the Sox were soon to discover. Seventeen Mansfield batters marched to the platter in that hectic first frame, 12 of them before the first out was made.

Bobby TeStruth led off with a single, Dick Morse strolled, Tim Mangan singled, Eddie Mutryn walked, Harry Siegbert doubled, Bill Reinka and Alex Clowson walked before Fremont's acting manager, Freddy Gerken, decided he'd made a mistake by starting Lou Hornyak, former outfielder, on the hill.

Hornyak was replaced by Krueger, and the carnage went on. Pat Patterson singled, TeStruth was safe on Gerken's error, Morse singled, Mangan got his second single of the inning, Mutryn was safe on a fielder's choice as Morse was being run down between third and home. Siegbert walked, Salem got his second single of the inning. Siegbert was caught off third. Reinka was safe on an error. And Clowson ended it with a fly to center.

Patterson, bothered by a lame arm, coasted to victory on that lead, but his mates were satisfied to stop at 13 runs. Three runs counted on Mutryn's homer, Siegbert's double, and singles by Salem and Clowson in the third.

Two more came in on Morse's drive over the left field wall and singles by Salem, Siegbert and Reinka in the fourth. Two more tallied in the fifth on Patterson's double and singles by Morse and Mutryn. And still two more came in the sixth on Pat's second double and singles by Clowson, Morse and Mangan.

That was enough for Fremont, and the game was called by agreement in the seventh. That forced the teams to play nine innings in the second game, since one tilt of a double bill must go for nine frames.

The Braves staged a great comeback to snare the second tilt. Trailing 1 to 6 going into the seventh inning, Mansfield blasted Clsgen from the hills and Hornyak came back in time to be charged with his second defeat in one day as the Braves piled up six runs to go into the lead.

* * *

Mangan and Mutryn singled and Siegbert and Salem doubled. Then Clowson doubled and TeStruth and Morse singled.

The victory was clinched in the eighth as Mutryn led off with his second home run of the day, and Siegbert, Reinka, Clowson and TeStruth singled, piling up four runs.

Tonight the Braves go to Fostoria and tomorrow night they meet the Red Birds here.

Where Should the Funeral Be Held?

While we are equipped to serve anywhere, there is a growing tendency toward funerals in our Funeral Home. Many prefer this to avoid memories of a funeral in the family home, others for the larger seating capacity.

The Finefrock Funeral Home is ideal. There is seating capacity for 400 persons, yet a private funeral can be an intimate service in one of the parlors.

Funerals held here cost no more. Our charges are the same whether a funeral is held in a church, the family home or our Funeral Home.

THEATERS

Comedy Corps.

"Caught in the Draft," Bob Hope's burlesque of the trials and tribulations of a rookie's life in the army, showing at the Ohio, features a comedy corps headed by Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Lynne Overman and Eddie Bracken. Playing the gun-shy hero who lands in the army because of one of his own practical jokes, Hope falls in love with the colonel's daughter and starts out to win a war on his own hook to gain her favor. New tunes and whacky situations abound in the production that has as much slapstick as an old Keystone comedy.

Waterfront Farce.

Wallace Beery as a lazy, lovable waterfront character has the girls pulling hair over him in "Barnacle Bill," at the Madison. Marjorie Main and Connie Gilchrist stage the battle when the former thinks Connie is edging in on her territory. Filmed at San Pedro's famous fishing harbor the picture deals with Beery's efforts to lead a tuna fishing village in a successful fight against a price-fixing combine. Leo Carrillo aids Beery in the comedy and Virginia Weidler plays Beery's motherless daughter. "Kisses For Breakfast," provides further fun when Dennis Morgan loses his memory and becomes involved with more than one sweetheart.

Timely Theme.

"Damaged Goods," the sensational stage play by Eugene Brieux that startled audiences some years ago by showing the tragedies resulting from syphilis, a taboo subject at that time, will open Tuesday at the Ritz. Released at a time when the country is trying to stamp out the plague through various educational measures and marriage laws the picture has a cast headed by Pedro de Cordoba, Phyllis Barry, Esther Dale and Ferdinand Munier.

Topper Comedy.

Joan Blondell plays the ghost who is addicted to practical jokes in "Topper Returns," mystery-comedy showing at the Park with Roland Young in the role of Thorne Smith's popular character, "Cosmos Topper." Joan directs Young in solving a murder mystery in an out-of-the-way mansion inhabited by H. B. Warner and an array of suspicious-looking servants. Carole Landis, Dennis King, and Billie Burke are in the cast. "Lady From Louisiana," the second feature, has Ona Munson, John Wayne and Helen Westley in a drama of old New Orleans.

DON'T YOU BELIEVE IT!

The word seems to be going around that we are out of cars—
"Don't you believe it!" We haven't too many and some types are scarce, but we can supply reasonable requirements.
Dodge dealers in other cities are daily calling us up and asking us for cars, but of course we would be very foolish to let any go under the present circumstances. Yes, we still have some!

FURTHER PLUS SIGNS ADDED IN RECOVERY

Stock Market Continues To Show Upward Climb; Jap Bonds Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market today pinned further plus signs on last week's recovery. Industrials led the forward push, which was fairly active at times. Quotations were around the best near the second hour.

Japanese bonds rallied briskly on assurances the Nipponese government would continue to meet interest and sinking fund requirements on the country's dollar obligations.

Wall Street seemingly was cheered by Russian claims of halting the Nazi thrust and the thought that the rift between the United Staes and Japan might not be as wide as originally feared.

Market students scanned the General Motors statement which disclosed second quarter sales of nearly $700,000,000 were the largest for any three months in the corporation's history and exceeded the like 1940 period by 51.6 per cent.

This Man Is What We Call a "Cool Customer"

Yet his entire outfit cost less than some men pay for a hot old time.

First, starting at the head of the list, is his soft braid straw at $1.95.

Then a dark sport shirt with throat as open as a singing thrush . . . $1.00.

Next, his pair of washable slacks that launder like a handkerchief, $1.95.

He had the belt.
